El

To all to whom these Presents shall come, Greeting:

Whereas Simeon Aldrich and Roger Aldrich of Windham County Vermont, have deposited in the General Land Office of the United States, a certificate of the Register of the Land Office at Fort Wayne whereby it appears that full payment has been made by the said Simeon Aldrich and Roger Aldrich according to the provisions of the Act of Congreſs of the 24th of April, 1820, entitled "An act making further provision for the sale of the Public Lands," for the South West quarter of Section Seven, in Township Thirty Five North, of Range Fifteen East, in the District of Lands subject to sale at Fort Wayne Indiana, containing One hundred and Sixty Acres.

according to the official plat of the survey of the said Lands, returned to the General Land Office by the Surveyor General, which said tract has been purchased by the said Simeon Aldrich and Roger Aldrich

NOW KNOW YE, That the UNITED STATES OF AMERICA, in consideration of the premises, and in conformity with the several acts of Congreſs, in such case made and provided, have given and granted, and by these presents do give and grant, unto the said Simeon Aldrich and Roger Aldrich and to their heirs, the said tract above described: To have and to hold the same, together with all the rights, privileges, immunities, and appurtenances of whatsoever nature, thereunto belonging, unto the said Simeon Aldrich and Roger Aldrich. and to their heirs and aſsigns forever. As Tenants in common, and not as joint Tenants.

INTRODUCTION

DEKALB COUNTY - FORMED 1837

1840 TAX RECORDS

The 1840 Tax Records were copied from the record books of the DeKalb Circuit Court Clerk's Office. The cooperation of Norman L. Gerig, Clerk, is greatly appreciated.

1840 CENSUS

There were no townships recorded on the microfilm although there were some formed at the time the census was taken.

The 1840 Census recorded war pensioneers but none were given for DeKalb County.

The even numbered pages contained no special information.

of Fish Creek, by Simon Aldrich, Peter Boyer and Roger Aldrich; a road on the northwest side of the St. Joseph River was surveyed by R. J. Dawson, and afterward corrected by John Blair, John Webster and Hector Blake; and a road from Enterprise to Uniontown by Daniel Kepler, Michael Boyer and John Farlee.

At the May session of 1838, the commissioners appropriated $2,000 from the three per cent. fund, as follows: $800 on the Fort Wayne and Coldwater road; $800 on the Goshen and Defiance road; and $400 on the State road on the northwest side of the St. Joseph River. The commissioner of the three per cent. fund was also directed to have constructed a bridge over the Big Cedar Creek north of the village of Auburn, where it was crossed by the Fort Wayne and Coldwater State road; another over the Little Cedar Creek, near the house of Joseph Stroup, where it crossed the State road; another over the Big Cedar Creek, at the crossing of Goshen and Defiance State road, near Auburn; a bridge over each of the three principal branches of the West Branch of Cedar Creek, where it was crossed by the same road; and a bridge over the Twenty-six Mile Creek, where it was crossed by the State road near the house of Byron Bunnel.

These first bridges were poor affairs, and though built at little expense, were more costly in the end than the bridges which have since taken their places all over the county, particularly the fine bridges at Newville, Waterloo, and Auburn. In 1842 Isaac Swarthout and J. R. Corper, while journeying to visit at Kendallville, crossed with a yoke of oxen and a two-horse wagon a bridge over Cedar Creek, which Joseph Miller had built for $300. This wagon was the first to cross the structure, and its weight broke a stringer. Hiram Iddings had previously crossed it in a one-horse buggy. But with increasing experience and growing wealth, more was done each year on roads and bridges; and now, after an expenditure of hundreds of thousands of dollars, highways in a good state of repair reach into every portion of the county. Much remains to be done yet, however, and the next ten years will doubtless witness wondrous improvements.

The commissioner of the three per cent. fund was also directed to have constructed a bridge over the Big Cedar Creek north of the village of Auburn, where it was crossed by the Fort Wayne and Coldwater State road; another over the Little Cedar Creek, near the house of Joseph Brown, where it crossed the State road; another over the Big Cedar Creek, at the crossing of Goshen and Defiance State road, near Auburn; a bridge over each of the three principal branches of the West Branch of Cedar Creek, where it was crossed by the same road; and a bridge over the Twenty-six Mile Creek, where it was crossed by the State road near the house of Byron Hansel.

These first bridges were poor affairs, and though built at little expense were more costly in the end than the bridges which have since taken their places all over the county, particularly the fine bridges at Newville, Waterloo and Auburn. In 1843 Isaac Ewers, John and J. H. Cooper, while journeying to mill at Kendallville, crossed with a yoke of oxen and a two-horse wagon a bridge over Cedar Creek, which Joseph Miller had built for mills. This wagon was the first to cross the structure, and its weight broke a stringer. Hiram Ribley had previously crossed it in a one-horse buggy. But with increasing experience and growing wealth more was done each year on roads and bridges, and now, after an expenditure of hundreds of thousands of dollars, highways in a good state of repair reach into every portion of the county. Much remains to be done yet, however, and the next ten years will doubtless witness wondrous improvements.

formed on the water, yet the little girl was bareheaded and barefooted, and was exposed for thirty hours. She was four years old the day she was rescued, May 22, 1850. She is now the wife of Simeon G. Aldrich, of Troy Township.

Artic postoffice was established in 1850, and was in charge of Amos Stearns until his death, in 1860. His son James was Postmaster the following three years, and then John Stearns for one year. Resigning, he was succeeded by James McDonald, who held the office when it was discontinued, in 1865. It was re-established in 1884, with Joseph Bell as Postmaster.

The Lutheran church was organized by Rev. James Cather, in 1843, in the house of John A. Zimmerman, on section 30. It flourished for many years, but by deaths and removals it has become a small congregation. The house of worship is on section 28. Services are conducted twice a month by Rev. Mr. Diefenbach.

The first Justice of the Peace was A. S. Casebeer; other early incumbents of that office were: S. Learned, Hambright Reese, Jacob Helwig, G. C. Everetts, John McDonald and George Smiley. Early Constables were: Willard Eddy, Peter Helwig, R. R. Emmerson, H. Casebeer, and George Smiley. Among the Trustees prior to 1860 were: Amos Stearns, Jacob Helwig, Roger Aldrich, Jacob Casebeer, John Robinet, Peter Jennings, W. R. Emmerson, Simeon Aldrich, William Knisely, B. Wise, B. Wallick, Timothy McClure and Daniel Knisely. W. R. Herbert, A. F. Pinchin, F. G. Biddle and D. McCurdy, were Clerks during the same period, while the office of Treasurer was filled by S. Learned, D. W. Aldrich, J. A. Zimmerman, Amos Stearns and G. C. Everetts.

The population of Troy Township is 646, or 44 to the square mile. This is a gain of 46 over the population by the United States census of 1870. The valuation per capita is $290.79. In 1884 the number of acres of land assessed was 9,569.64; value of same, $151,650; value of improvements, $17,360; value of lands and improvements, $169,010; value of personal property, $55,730; total value of taxables, $224,740; rate of taxation, $1.56; number of polls, —; poll tax, $1.50.

The following are statistics of the staple crops raised in 1881: Acres in wheat, 1,398; product of same, at 6 bushels per acre, 8,388 bushels; acres in corn, 993; product of same, at 30 bushels per acre for upland and 35 bushels for lowland, 30,035 bushels; acres in oats, 685; product of same, at 30 bushels per acre, 20,550 bushels; acres in meadow land, 424; product of same, at a ton and a half per acre, 636 tons of hay; acres in Irish potatoes, 28; product of same, 28 bushels per acre, or 784 bushels.

BIOGRAPHICAL.

Roger Aldrich, deceased, was born in Guilford, Vt., in 1798. He received but a limited education, being reared on a farm in the early days. In 1836 he came to Indiana and entered 160 acres of land on section 18, Troy Township, De Kalb Co., and eighty acres in Franklin Township. At that time it was heavily timbered and Indians were their neighbors. He cleared a small patch and built a log cabin 20 x 24 feet in size, which at that time was the best house in the county. The roof was covered with shakes, and the lumber for the floor was brought from Houlton's mill in Williams County, Ohio. Mr. Aldrich was one of the prominent men of the early days of the county, and for several years was Trustee of his township. He died on the homestead in December, 1869. Mrs. Aldrich still lives with her daughter, Mrs. Rummel, on the old homestead, and although in the ninetieth year of her age is able to read, sew and knit, and goes about the house without assistance. The day she was seventy years old she spun her daily work of forty knots of yarn. Her maiden name was Lucy Tubbs, a daughter of Miah Tubbs. She was married to Mr. Aldrich in September, 1820. To them were born six children, but one of whom, Lucy M., wife of Talma Rummel, is living. One daughter, Mrs. Amelia Pinchin, died at the age of twenty-seven years, and another, Elizabeth, aged fifteen years.

Simeon J. Aldrich, farmer and stock-raiser, Troy Township, section 7, was born in this township, Aug. 4, 1842, a son of Simeon Aldrich, one of the old pioneers, now deceased. He was reared on the farm, remaining at home till after the breaking out of the Rebellion, and then enlisted in Company F, Forty-fourth Indiana Infantry, and served nearly four years. Two years of the time he was fife-major, and he has the fife used by him while in the service, which was presented to him by his comrades. He participated in the battles of Fort Donelson, Shiloh, Stone River, Chickamauga, and many others of less importance. Since his return from the war he has engaged in agricultural pursuits. He owns a fine farm of 170 acres where [illegible] farm is now [illegible] produce of grain, 40 to 60 bushels per acre, 20 to 30 bushels; acres in meadow land, also produce of corn, at a [illegible] and wheat per acre, [illegible] tons of hay; acres in fruit orchards, &c.; product of same, 20 bushels per acre, or 30 bushels.

BIOGRAPHICAL.

Ezra Aldrich, deceased, was born in Guilford, Vt., in 1792. He received but a limited education, being reared on a farm in the early days. In 1836 he came to Indiana and entered 160 acres of land on section 18, Troy Township, De Kalb Co., and eighty acres in Franklin Township. At that time it was heavily timbered and Indians were their neighbors. He cleared a small patch and built a log cabin 20x24 feet in size, which at that time was the best house in the county. Mr. Aldrich was one of the prominent men of the early days of the county, and for several years was Trustee of his township. He died on the homestead in December, 1854. Mrs. Aldrich still lives with her daughter, Mrs. Rosmand, on the old homestead, and although in the eightieth year of her age is able to read, sew and knit, and goes about the house without assistance. The day she was seventy years old she spun her daily work of forty knots of yarn. Her maiden name was Lucy Tubbs, a daughter of Micah Tubbs. She was married to Mr. Aldrich in September, 1822. To them were born six children, but one of whom, Lucy M., wife of Tabias Rosmand, is living. One daughter, Mrs. Amelia Fowler, died at the age of twenty-seven years, and another, Elizabeth, aged fifteen years.

Seward Aldrich, farmer and stock-raiser, Troy Township, section 8, was born in this township, May 8, 1842, a son of Simon Aldrich, one of the old pioneers, now deceased. He was reared on the farm, remaining at home till after the breaking out of the Rebellion, and then enlisted in Company K, Thirty-fourth Indiana Infantry, and served nearly four years. Two years of the time he was file-bearer, and he has the file used by him while in the service, which was presented to him by his comrades. he has lived for the past eighteen years. He was married Feb. 24, 1867, to Sabrina, daughter of Samuel Learned, and to them have been born seven children—Samuel, Oren, Seth, Asa, Emily, Sarah and Leola. Mr. and Mrs. Aldrich are members of the United Brethren church.

Jacob Brunner, farmer and stock-raiser, section 4, Troy Township, is a native of Stark County, Ohio, born July 30, 1837, the eldest of eight children of Ulrich and Mary M. (Durler) Brunner. His father was a native of Switzerland, and came to America in 1832, settling in Stark County, and subsequently moved to Tuscarawas County, and in the fall of 1852 to De Kalb County, Ind., and died in Troy Township in 1861. He was twice married, having four children by the first marriage, three of whom are living—Ulrich, Christian and Peter. Of the eight children born to him by his second wife, but five are living—Jacob, Caroline, David, Sarah A. and Susan, all residents of De Kalb County except Caroline, who lives in Wyandotte County, Ohio. Jacob Brunner was reared a farmer, and also learned the mason's trade which he has followed at intervals. In 1865 he settled on the farm where he now lives, which was then heavily timbered, the only improvements being a log house and well. He now owns sixty acres of well-improved land, with valuable and convenient farm buildings. He was married Jan. 5, 1862, to Mary E. Reese, daughter of Hambright Reese, who settled in this township in 1846. She is the second of five children, and the only daughter. Her brothers are: Benjamin F., of Ionia County, Mich.; John, of Crawfordsville, Ind.; George, of this township, and David, of Pleasant Lake, Steuben County. To Mr. and Mrs. Brunner have been born five children—Ettie E., Ada S., J. Marian, Melvin H. and Adda. They are active and influential members of the United Brethren church.

Henry Burkhart, farmer and stock-raiser, section 5, Troy Township, was born in Germany, April 25, 1815, a son of Peter Burkhart. He was reared in his native country and in 1837 came to the United States with his parents and settled in Tuscarawas County, Ohio, where his parents died. About 1844 he moved to Williams County, Ohio, and early in 1859 to De Kalb County, Ind., and settled on the farm where he now lives, which is carried on by his sons. He owns 110 acres of valuable land under a good state of cultivation. When he started he has lived for the past eighteen years. He was married Feb. 14, 1867, to Sabrina, daughter of Samuel Learned, and to them have been born seven children—Samuel, Oren, Seth, Ida, Emily, Sarah and Linda. Mr. and Mrs. Aldrich are members of the United Brethren church.

Jacob Brunner, farmer and stock-raiser, section 4, Troy Township, is a native of Stark County, Ohio, born July 30, 1837, the eldest of eight children of Ulrich and Mary M. (Dudley) Brunner. His father was a native of Switzerland, and came to America in 1832, settling in Stark County, and subsequently moved to Tuscarawas County, and in the fall of 1852 to De Kalb County, Ind., and died in Troy Township in 1867. He was twice married, having four children by the first marriage, three of whom are living—Ulrich, Cornelius and Peter. Of the eight children born to him by his second wife, but five are living—Jacob, Caroline, David, Sarah A. and Susan, all residents of De Kalb County except Caroline, who lives in Wyandotte County, Ohio. Wanemaker, Henry Fusselman, and Thomas Strote. John Barber was located in the northern part of the township. C. R. Wanemaker and Stephen W. Hackley were other settlers of the early date.

FIRST OFFICERS.

Among the justices of the peace who have served this township, some of the early ones were: Rufus Coats, Henry Fusselman, David McDaniel, Noyce Coats, Samuel Wanemaker, F. Hoffman and J. J. Imhoff. Early constables were: I. Gaft, C. R. Wanemaker, H. Dickerhoff, and H. H. Wanemaker. Trustees were: J. J. Gunsenhouser, Isaac Beal, A. Fusselman, Joseph A. Coats, Noyce Coats, J. J. Imhoff, F. Hoffman, Peter Walter, John Crouse, Samuel Headley, John W. Rose, Jesse W. Rose, C. H. Wanemaker, William Brown, John Webster, William Webster and Chris. Wanemaker. C. R. Wanemaker, James Cather and Jacob Crise were early assessors.

In 1880 the population of Stafford township was 569; in 1890, 476; in 1900, 423; in 1910, 381.

TROY TOWNSHIP.

In the southeastern corner of DeKalb county is the fractional township of Troy. It is bounded on the north by Richland township, Steuben county, on the east by the state of Ohio, on the south by the township of Stafford, and on the west by Franklin township. Fish creek enters the township from the northwest, and crosses the state line a mile north of the southeast corner, being the second largest creek in the county, and the one upon which, near the mouth, that Houlton & Hughes erected their saw mill in 1827. The northern portion of the township is of a clayey soil, the central and southeast of rich, sandy loam, and to the southwest, clay again. The Wabash railroad runs on a southwest and northeast diagonal through the southern half of the township.

EARLY SETTLEMENT.

The earliest known settler of the township was Isaac T. Aldrich, later of Franklin township. In the following year, Roger Aldrich, a brother, became a settler, and Simeon Aldrich subsequently moved in. Others of the early comers to this locality were: George Skinner, Asa Haynes, G. Williams, R. Reed, Willard Eddy, S. Call and John and A. S. Casebeer, Peter Helwig, Jacob Helwig, Updegraff Clawson, I. Clawson, and W. R. Herbert.

MILLS.

At the mouth of Fish creek, in 1827, Houlton & Hughes erected their saw mill; and Mr. Casebeer had a grist mill in operation near the same time. Higher up Samuel Kepler had another, and at the outlet of Fish lake, were the Hamilton mills, owned by John Fee.

FIRST OFFICERS.

The first justice of the peace of Troy township was A. S. Casebeer, and the others who followed were: S. Learned, Hambright Reese, Jacob Helwig, G. C. Everetts, John McDonald and George Smiley. Early constables were: Willard Eddy, Peter Helwig, R. R. Emmerson, H. Casebeer and George Smiley. Among the trustees prior to 1860 were: Amos Stearns, Jacob Helwig, Roger Aldrich, Jacob Casebeer, John Robinet, Peter Jennings, W. R. Emmerson, Simeon Aldrich, William Knisely, B. Wise, B. Wallick, Timothy McClure and Daniel Knisely. W. R. Herbert, A. F. Pinchin, F. G. Biddle and D. McCurdy were clerks during the same period, while the office of treasurer was filled by S. Learned, D. W. Aldrich, J. A. Zimmerman, Amos Stearns and G. C. Everetts.

ARTIC.

The Artic postoffice was established in 1850, and was in charge of Amos Stearns until his death in 1860. His son James was the postmaster during the following three years, and then John Stearns for one year. Resigning, he was succeeded by James McDonald, who held the office when it was discontinued in 1865. It was re-established in 1884, with Joseph Bell as postmaster.

In 1880, the population of Troy township was 646; in 1890, 607; in 1900, 520; and in 1910, 500.

SPENCER TOWNSHIP.

The board of county commissioners, on June 7, 1909, divided the township of Concord, and named the lower half Spencer township. The division was for school purposes entirely, and although much controversy and hard feeling existed at the time, the two townships at present are enjoying mutual prosperity.

the other leading southeast and at the St. Joseph river intersecting a trail from the east. The other trail, from the direction of Toledo, followed a southwesterly course, crossed the Fort Wayne trail near the Lake of the Woods, south of the Tamarack House, a pioneer tavern of Lagrange. The trail was a path worn in places to a depth of six inches by moccasin and pony hoof, and making wide detours for marsh and lake. Pioneer roads followed the trails as far as practicable. Joseph Miller (first county surveyor) cut a narrow track from the river through to Cedar creek, below Auburn, and also from Auburn to Blair's mill. Miller stated that the logs were left in the track, and that articles were hauled by oxen attached to a sled constructed as follows: A sapling was cut, having a fork at the top, consisting of stout limbs several feet long; the limbs were used as runners, and the body of the stick formed the tongue; a box was then fixed on the runners. Wesley Park and Mr. Miller afterward widened this road to admit the passage of a cart. The trail was known then as "Miller's trace."

In July, 1837, Wesley Park, Cornelius Gilmore and Seth W. Murray were appointed commissioners to lay out the Coldwater and Fort Wayne state road, running nearly north and south through the county. They did so, making their report on September 1st. Wesley Park and one Hostetter were to lay out the Goshen and Defiance state road, east and west through the county. The work was performed by Park alone, and the legislature afterward legalized this. Joseph Miller was the surveyor, and Henry Feagler and John Miller carried the chain. Other first roads were located as follows: The state road from Auburn to Fort Wayne via Vandoler's mill, by T. L. Yates and Benjamin Miller; the state road from Angola to Fort Wayne, west of Auburn, by Daniel Moody, Solomon Showers and Henry Miller; a road on the southwest side of Fish creek, by Simon Aldrich, Peter Boyer and Roger Aldrich; a road on the northwest side of the St. Joseph river was surveyed by R. J. Dawson, and afterward corrected by John Blair, John Webster and Hector Blake, and a road from Enterprise to Uniontown by Daniel Kepler, Michael Boyer and John Farlee.

At the May session of 1838 the commissioners appropriated two thousand dollars from the three per cent. fund, as follows: Eight hundred dollars on the Goshen and Defiance road; eight hundred dollars on the Fort Wayne and Coldwater road, and four hundred dollars on the state road on the northwest side of the St. Joseph river. The commissioner of the three per cent. fund was also directed to have constructed a bridge over the Big Cedar creek north of the village of Auburn, where it was crossed by the Fort without proper filling it must have been an exceedingly rough road. Articles were transported along this road on rude sledges drawn by oxen, who made up by strength what they lacked in speed. This road was known as "Miller's trace," and was afterward widened by Mr. Miller, with the aid of Wesley Park, so as to admit the passage of a cart. It must also have been otherwise improved.

Wesley Park, the founder of Auburn, was one of the most enterprising and active of the pioneers in road building, as he was in many other things. In July, 1837, Mr. Park, Seth W. Murray and Cornelius Gilmore were appointed commissioners to lay out a road running nearly north and south through the county, and which was known as the Coldwater and Fort Wayne State Road. The work seems to have been soon accomplished, as the commissioners made their report on the first of September. In association with a certain Mr. Hostetter, Wesley Park was then appointed to lay out the Goshen and Defiance State Road, running east and west through the county. Mr. Hostetter seems to have dropped out of the enterprise, as the work was done by Mr. Park alone, Joseph Miller being the surveyor. The state road from Auburn to Fort Wayne was laid out by T. L. Yates and Benjamin Miller; that from Angola to Fort Wayne, west of Auburn, by Henry Miller, Daniel Moody and Solomon Showers; a road on the southwest side of Fish Creek by Peter Boyer, Simon Aldrich and Roger Aldrich; a road on the northwest side of the St. Joseph River was surveyed by R. J. Dawson, and afterward corrected by John Blair, John Webster and Hector Blake, while Daniel Kepler, John Farlee and Michael Boyer laid out a road between Enterprise and Uniontown.

These early roads at the best were mere wagon paths, and little improvement was made in them for many years. As late as 1865 the dirt roads, which formed the only avenue of communication, during a part of the year became so bad as to place an embargo on travel, and left the county seat practically isolated. Large sums in the aggregate, under the caption of road revenue, had been assessed to the various townships and towns of the county, and worked out at the discretion and convenience of the farmers, with varying effects on the highways proportioned to the skill of the supervisor and the public spirit of the people, and, to facilitate intercourse, the county commissioners authorized bridges to be built over some of the streams. The earliest bridges, however, had been constructed at a much earlier date, for, in 1838, when the commissioners appropriated funds for the improvement and upkeep of several of the roads already laid out, the commissioner of the three per cent fund was directed to have constructed a bridge over the Big Cedar Creek, north of the Village of Auburn, where it was crossed by the Fort Wayne and Coldwater State Road; another over the same creek, at the crossing of the Goshen and Defiance State Road, near Auburn; a bridge over Little Cedar Creek, where it was crossed by the state road; a bridge over Twenty-six Mile Creek, at the crossing of the state road, and bridges over the three principal branches of Cedar Creek, at the crossing of the Goshen and Defiance State Road.

As but little money was then available for public improvements, these early bridges, like the early roads, were but poor affairs, compared with the substantial structures of both kinds which are found throughout the county today; yet, as is always the case, the cheaper they were built the dearer they were; for in some cases they were not found strong enough for the purpose designed, and had to be strengthened and frequently repaired at a considerable additional cost. The wastefulness of this method became in time apparent, and a better system was adopted. In 1865 a contract was let to William Valleau, the lowest bidder, for $5,700, for refreshments were served, and similar scenes were taking place in other parts of the township. In 1848 a frame schoolhouse was erected in district 10, Alvin Thompson being the first teacher. In 1855 the Methodists erected a frame church. A small hamlet grew up in time on the line between sections 15 and 22, which took the name of Fairfield Center, but it never attained any size worth mentioning, trade being attracted to Waterloo, Corunna and other towns. The assessment list of 1918 showed the following valuations for Fairfield Township; lands, lots and improvements, $771,670; personal and corporation property, $398,240; total net value of taxables, $1,111,260.

TROY TOWNSHIP

The Fractional Township of Troy is situated in the northeast part of DeKalb County, and was at first included in the Township of Franklin, organized in July, 1837. It is watered by Fish Creek and its branches. The soil in the northern and southwestern portions is largely clay, while that in the central and southeastern parts is a rich sandy loam. The water-power facilities were a stimulus to early settlement and promoted the erection of mills. Isaac T. Aldrich was the earliest settler, but he later removed to Franklin. Roger Aldrich, a brother of Isaac, came a year later, and was followed by Simeon Aldrich, who erected the first frame building. Other permanent settlers were George Skinner, Asa Haynes, G. Williams, R. Reed, Willard Eddy, S. Call, and John and A. S. Casebeer. The last mentioned built a saw and grist mill on the creek at an early day, which proved of much advantage to the settlers. Amos Stearns arrived early in the fall of 1838, but was soon taken sick, and home work on his place devolved on the women of the family. Peter and Jacob Helwig, Updegraff Clawson, I. Clawson and W. R. Herbert were well known pioneers. A Lutheran church was organized in 1843 at the house of John Zimmerman, on section 20, a house of worship being built later on section 28. The church flourished for many years, until reduced by deaths and removals.

Arctic postoffice was established in 1850, and for ten years Amos Stearns was postmaster. It was discontinued in 1865, but re-established in 1884. Since then it has been again discontinued, and the hamlet and the vicinity has free rural delivery from Botha, five miles distant. Arctic has a population of about forty persons, and there is a general store and wagon shop. On February 18, 1914, there occurred a costly wreck on the Wabash Railroad, fifteen loaded cars being thrown down a twenty-foot embankment.

The assessment list for 1918 showed the following valuations for Troy Township: lands, lots and improvements, $328,450; personal and corporation property, $242,570; total net value of taxables, $547,290.

improvements were secured, and similar progress were taking place in other parts of the township. In 1858 a frame schoolhouse was erected at section 36, Alvia Thompson being the first teacher. In 1856 the Methodists erected a frame church. A small hamlet grew up in time on the line between sections 15 and 22, which took the name of Fairfield Center, but it never attained any size worth mentioning, trade being attracted to Waterloo, Corunna and other towns. The assessment list of 1918 showed the following valuations for Fairfield Township: lands, lots and improvements, $771,670; personal and corporation property, $308,220; total net value of taxables, $1,111,300.

Amos Stevens arrived early in the fall of 1836, but was soon taken sick and heavy work on his place devolved on the women of the family. Peter and Jacob Hartwig, Ephraim Carnahan, J. Clowes and W. R. Herbert were well known pioneers. A Lutheran church was organized in 1854 at the house of John Zimmerman, on section 20, a house of worship being built later on section 29. The church flourished for many years, until reduced by deaths and removals.

Arctic postoffice was established in 1850, and for ten years Amos Stevens was postmaster. It was discontinued in 1862, but reestablished in 1869. Since then it has been again discontinued, and the hamlet and the vicinity has free rural delivery from Hudson, five miles distant. 325. SIMEON^6 ALDRICH (Jonathan^{5} (136), Jonathan^{4}, Seth^{3}, Jacob^{2}, George^{1}), b. 1 May 1777, son of Jonathan Aldrich and Olive (Worth), d. 27 Sept. 1860, m. at Guilford, Vt. to PENELOPE GRANGER, b. Sept. 1782, d. 20 Sept. 1830; he m. 2nd MRS. LUCY JACKMAN, b. 1800, d. 28 June 1850. The second marriage at Guilford, 18 Sept. 1838.

Simeon Aldrich and his family went by wagon to the Hudson River, thence to Lake Erie and by water to Toledo, and from there by canal to Defiance, Ohio.

Mr. Aldrich had been a wealthy farmer in New England, and on starting west, stored his money in gold coins in bags in a chest. At Toledo, while transferring the stuff from the ship to a lighter, the chest of gold was dropped and broken and the gold went to the bottom of the lake, but, after an anxious time, was restored to its owner.

Mr. Aldrich's two sons, Simeon and Terry, had come west sometime before this and had spent four years in Williams County, Ohio. Soon afterwards the Houlton family came across from the county to DeKalb County, Indiana, being the first settlers here, and in 1834 the Aldrich boys followed.

These sons met Mr. McClure and the Aldrich family at Defiance, Ohio and with ox teams were four days coming across the country to Troy township, locating four miles east of Hamilton. There Mr. Aldrich entered land for all his children giving each of them a good start in life, and there his wife got lost in a swamp a year later, her death occurring from the effects of the exposure. Subsequently Mr. Aldrich returned to Vermont, where he married and brought his wife back to the frontier home, and here her death occurred about eight months later. Mrs. Olive McClure received from her father eighty acres of land and a house, each of her brothers being given one thousand dollars each.

Mr. Aldrich who had been a stock breeder in the east, came here in order to secure larger opportunities for the members of his family. Things were not very encouraging here at that time and it is related that a letter written him in 1836 from Vermont was sent to his nearest post office, LaGrange Center, about forty miles from his home. From about 1848 to about 1855 he carried the United States mail from Defiance to Lagrange, thence to Cold Water, Mich. and to the neighborhoods between these points, riding horseback over roadless prairies and fordging unbridged streams. He bought and sold farms frequently, owning a large number of them and was really more of a business man than a farmer.

Subject: Re: George Aldrich 1605 in Winthrop Fleet

There is a new Aldrich book, dealing with descendants of Thomas Aldrich. In this book there is a section saying George and Katherine came over on the Winthrop Fleet. Need to check that book on the Fleet. It lists all passengers who came from England, showing which town they came from. According to the section the Fleet left London in 1629 when George and Katherine were newlyweds.

I have seen the book for different family but now I have to recheck that book for George Aldrich this time.

From what the book said, George and Katherine were converted to Quakerism not long after their moving to Mount Wollaston (now Braintree) from Dorchster. They were already Puritans when they left England in the Fleet.

SPRAGUE FILES

"God brought me to America from Derbyshire England Nov.6,1631" were his own words, as a descendant of George1 Aldrich has stated, - Marcus M. Aldrich of Mendon.

He was a tailor, and in 1637 had a house lot set off to him in Dorchester, and he and his wife were members of the Dorchester Church about 1636. The house lot was one acre near the burying ground.

On Feb.24,1640 he received a land grant in Braintree of 20 acres for five heads in the family. This land he occupied until his removal to Mendon in 1663. It is located on the north side of Neonatiquot River on Elm St. about 1/3 or 1/2 mile east of Braintree railroad station. But he also occupied, evidently as a tenant farmer, a common custom in early days, a large tract in the northwest part of present Braintree where the Blue Hill Cemetery now is. This tract of 280 acres was first granted in 1638/9 to Benjamin Keayne of Boston who died in England before the death of his father Robert Keayne of Boston. No deeds of sale are on record but by 1677 it was owned in shares by various Braintree people, and was long after known as the "Aldridge Farm", but whether actually owned by George Aldrich is unknown. The homestead lot on Elm St. was sold to Richard Thayer Jun.9,1663. It then consisted of a house, two orchards and eight acres (S.D. 5-457). He was at Swansea in 1670.

He died in Mendon Mar.1,1683 leaving a will dated Nov.2,1682 which mentions his wife and children Joseph, John, Jacob, Mary, Sarah Bartlett, Mary Randall and Martha Dunbar.

His wife was Katherine Seald whom he married in England Sep.3,1629 - according to Marcus M. Aldrich. She deposed Jun.18,1670 aged 60 years, and died Jan.11,1691 leaving three daughters and four sons.

It is said they had a son Abel born and died, probably in England.

He was one of the original grantees and settlers at Mendon in 1663. He was made freeman Dec.7,1636 and in 1645 was one of the Braintree men who petitioned the General Court for land for a new plantation.

some experience in reading maps, especially U.S. Geological Survey topographic maps, will help. Persons who are well traveled and those who are hikers will have no problem, nor will the few who are civil engineers, as I am.

I have also included fragments of major events in American history to provide points of reference. In addition, comments on Colonial life are sprinkled in to give the reader an appreciation for the hardships suffered by the early pioneers compared to our twentieth century life.

While this branch of the Aldrich family had its clergymen and teachers, a tailor, blacksmiths and a grist mill owner, they were, above all, subsistence farmers. They purchased or were granted land in new towns where they were founders or early residents. They tamed the wilderness, established their farms, organized their churches and raised large families.

Genealogy books are traditionally written to follow the male line, with nearly all references when "fleshing out" the bare vital statistics, to the male head of family. This book is no exception, for the simple reason that women in the family left few traces to write about. Nevertheless, these pioneer women who followed their husbands and bore their children deserve special compassion. Many died in childbirth. They worked long and hard to feed and clothe the family, to spin and sew, to milk and cook, to wash and clean and to garden.

I want to acknowledge with thanks the many historians, librarians, town and county clerks, and genealogists who responded to my queries and provided valuable information and leads. They include Anthony Sammarco, H. Hobart Holly, Alice Palladini, Mary Pierce, Norma Thibodeau, John Lucy, Cynthia Cameron, Grace Butchino, Nancy Morris, Bruce Hayard, Charles Aldrich and librarians at the New England Historic Genealogical Society. I'm especially grateful to Margaret F. Costello at NEHGS for editing the manuscript. If further acknowledgement is due, it is hereby gratefully presumed.

Inevitably, the reader will find errors in the book, and will be able to provide new information and insight. Corrections and comments are not only welcome, but are encouraged.

1. George^1 Aldrich (1605-1693)

GEORGE^1 ALDRICH was born at Derbyshire, England about 1605(1)*, and died at Mendon, Worcester Co., MA, 1 March 1683(1)(1682?)(4). He married at Derbyshire, 3 September 1629(8), KATHERINE SEALD, who was born about 1610 and died at Mendon, 11 January 1692(4). While the site of their burial is unknown, they were probably buried in the "Old Cemetery" in Mendon, located on Providence St. immediately north of George Aldrich's property. According to the George Aldrich Genealogy, (by A. James Aldrich, Cedar Rapids, IA, 1971; hereinafter Aldrich Genealogy), a large granite boulder with a bronze tablet marks their graves. The author understands that the bronze tablet, although proposed, was never placed. The large boulder is located at the rear (south) boundary of the cemetery near a gravestone for Paris W. Aldrich. It is unlikely that the stone was placed at this location to mark a grave; it is more likely to be a natural glacial erratic.

In an old cemetery located on Glendale Street in nearby Uxbridge, 0.1 mile south of Aldrich Street, there is a granite boulder with a bronze tablet which was placed there in 1955. The plaque reads that George Aldrich and several of his descendants are buried here. The common consensus disputes the claim that George is buried in Uxbridge.

George^1 Aldrich is the son of George^A Aldrich and Joan (Thurgood) Aldrich. George^A was born at Canfield, England, 13 September 1574 and died at Edwardstone, England, 29 August 1601.

George Aldrich is the founder of the largest and most prominent Aldrich family in America. He is reputed to have said "God brought me to America from Derbyshire, England, November 6, 1631," according to notes taken from an old family record, long since lost, which George probably started. The author finds the earliest reference to this statement in a paper by Marcus M. Aldrich, well-known Aldrich genealogist from Mendon, MA, at the turn of the century, which he read at the annual meeting of the Mendon Historical Society on 8 October 1908. The statement is often quoted in genealogies of Aldrich families.

Over one-half of the 25,000 English colonists who came to New England during the Great Migration from 1620 to 1643 (primarily from 1630 with the arrival of the Plymouth Company's expedition, seventeen ships led by John Winthrop) were Puritans who came from London, Derby, Suffolk and Essex, among whom were George and Katherine Aldrich.

In the late sixteenth and early seventeenth centuries, dissenters of the protestant Church of England became known as Puritans. The Puritans, desiring religious liberty and a simpler form of worship, emigrated primarily to escape persecution by the established Church. These middle class people also sought land to improve their material condition. Others may have come for the adventure and to establish trade between the colonies and England. For all practical purposes, the emigration of Puritans ceased in 1643 when their persecution ended. Civil liberties were established when the Puritan party in the English Commonwealth won control of the government.

According to the Aldrich Genealogy, Vol. 1, p. 30, "...it is evident that George Aldrich, brought up amid Puritan influences, had embraced with fervid and uncompromising conviction the Puritan faith of the founders of New England; and within a few years he joined the throng who left their beloved ancestral homes and braved the perils of the deep and endured the hardships of a wilderness infested with sometimes hostile people, to establish a nation in the New World."

The ship on which George and Katherine sailed to America is not known. However, based on their presumed arrival date of 6 November 1631, the ship was probably the Lyon which made four trips in 1630, 1631 and 1632. With William Peirce, Master, the Lyon left London about 23 August 1631 and arrived at Nantasket 2 November (The Planters of the Commonwealth, Charles Edward Banks, 1972, p. 94). The names of only fifteen of the approximately sixty passengers are known for certain. George and Katherine are not among them. (Of the 25,000 English colonists who emigrated to New England before 1643, fewer than five percent have been recorded on ships' passenger lists.)

The arrival of the Lyon in Boston in November 1631 is well documented from manuscripts by John Winthrop, Esq., first Governor of the Colony of the Massachusetts Bay (The History of New England from 1630 to 1649, James Savage, 1853, Vol. 1). A further description may be found in The Winthrop Family of America, Lawrence Shaw Mayo, 1948. Thomas F. Aldrich, in The Aldrich Heritage, 1983, describes the Lyon's voyage as follows:

> It was the beginning of August 1631 and the old reliable, 250 ton sailing ship, THE LYON, sat at her berth in London, England taking on cargo, with emphasis on foodstuffs, harness, seeds, rope, sails and live stock in preparation for her third trip to the New World. Her master, Capt. William Peirce, was known for his skillful seamanship and particular concern for the comfort of his passengers in addition to his sympathy with the Puritan cause. ...
> On November 2, 1631 the ship reached the entrance of Boston Harbor but was unable to enter as the wind blew toward them from the land. The ship dropped anchor and John Winthrop Jr. went ashore to meet his father. The next day Governor Winthrop went to the ship and spent the night. Finally on the 4th of November the wind became favorable and the ship, Lyon, sailed into Boston Harbor and dropped anchor. Governor Winthrop, his wife and children, went ashore with Captain Peirce in his ship boat as the ship fired a salute of 6 or 7 guns, and when they arrived on land, they were greeted by volleys of shot and three small cannon. Officers of the colony, friends and acquaintances were there to greet them and for several days they brought or sent great stores of provisions, such as fat hogs, kids, venison, poultry, geese, partridges and the like. The manifestation of such love and joy had never before been seen in New England, a memorable arrival for George and Katherine.

Soon after their arrival, it is probable that George and Katherine settled in Dorchester, a colony first settled in May 1630 by Puritans who came to New England on the Mary and John. Dorchester was located approximately 3 miles south of Boston which was also founded in 1630. Dorchester became a part of Boston in 1870.

The first meetinghouse was built in 1631 near the corner of Pleasant, Pond and East Cottage Streets. It was probably a log house with a roof thatched with long grass or reeds. It became the heart of Old Dorchester, serving as a place of worship, a school, and a civic center. The First Church of Dorchester is the oldest religious society in the present City of Boston.

George and Katherine would have joined the Church soon after their arrival. They are listed among members in Church records which begin 23 August 1636 (Records of the First Church of Dorchester, 1636-1734, 1891, p. 4). On 7 December 1636, George took the oath and became a freeman, a form of citizenship requiring church membership, with the right to vote and hold public office.

According to Dorchester Town Records (City of Boston Fourth Report of the Record Commissioners, Third Edition, 1896, p. 28), on 2 January 1637, "It is ordered that Good:Oldrich shall have one aker of upland to build a house amongst others above the burying place." Although the exact location of this lot has not been determined nor has a record of its sale been found, it probably was located on the slope of Jones Hill. The burial ground, laid out in 1634, was located at the corner of the present Boston and Stoughton Streets.

The first houses in Dorchester were built along Pleasant Street, stretching south from the meetinghouse toward Jones Hill and Rocky Hill. Until 1635 and perhaps later, homelots were ordered to be placed not farther than one-half mile from the meeting house. A compact settlement was desirable for defense from an attack by Indians and for better religious and governmental control.

Lots granted to settlers were generally larger than one acre. Perhaps George, a tailor by trade, did not need more land. In his later years, while living in Braintree and Mendon, he had large land holdings and undoubtedly farmed.

One wonders where and how George and his family lived between 1631 and 1637, especially during the first winter after their arrival. Perhaps they lived with other settlers or built their lodging on rented land. Perhaps they were granted land for which there is no record. The lodgings of early settlers were rude impermanent structures. A few lived in caves, especially to survive the first winter, but more common were "Tents of Cloath" and "Canvis Boothes."

In the beginning, there were magnificent forests of trees of many types but no saw mills. There were cobblestones and boulders but no stone cutters. There was clay but no brick kilns. The principal tool available for homebuilding was the broad axe. Soon, as new communities were settled, the rude cottages and huts were replaced by traditional framed houses similar to those the settlers were familiar with in England. By mid-century, Edward Johnson wrote: "the Lord hath been pleased to turn all the wigwams, huts, and hovels the English dwelt in at their first coming, into orderly, fair, and well-built houses, well furnished many of them, together with Orchards filled with goodly fruit trees, and gardens with variety of flowers" (The Framed Houses of Massachusetts Bay, 1625-1725, Abbott Lowell Cummings, 1979, p. 21).

The houses were one, two and even two and one-half stories. Their steep roofs were covered with hand-split shingles, although many still had thatched roofs. Walls were "wattled," the timber framework covered with clay reinforced with chopped straw. To withstand the rigors of New England winters, the outside walls were covered by boards. Windows of the first houses were covered with oiled paper to admit light. Glass was scarce in pioneer houses.

Family life centered in the kitchen where a fire in a huge fireplace spread warmth and light. Additional light in the earliest American houses was provided by burning pine-knots harvested from pitch pine trees, and by tallow candles made from the grease and fat of domestic and wild animals.

Mealtimes in colonial days bear little resemblance to our dinner tables today. The dining table was a long board, without legs, which was set on trestles, sometimes shaped like saw-horses. Long narrow benches, without a back, commonly provided seating at the table-board. There were seldom chairs. In many households, children were not allowed to sit at the table but were required to stand while eating.

Colonists ate from a trencher, a block of wood perhaps ten or twelve inches square hollowed out to form a bowl. Usually, two or more persons shared the meat and vegetables or the porridge from one trencher. Colonists ate with spoons, there being no forks. A tankard or two of cider or milk was passed around the table for each to drink. (Home Life in Colonial Days, Alice Morse Earle, 1898, reprinted 1974).

Regardless of their early house(s), it was here, in Dorchester, that the first four Aldrich children were born, one of whom, Mary, died before 1640.

On 24 February 1640, George Aldrich was granted a 20-acre parcel of land in Mount Wollaston, receiving four acres for each member of his family. Earlier, he was among those who petitioned the General Court in Boston for land in Mount Wollaston which had been annexed to Boston in 1634. On 25 September of that year, the General Court was ordered to establish the settlement and to grant tracts of land to be settled by certain inhabitants of Boston.

Mount Wollaston became Braintree in 1640. Old Braintree of the seventeenth century was a forty square mile area comprising generally what is today Braintree, Randolph, Holbrook and Quincy, less North Quincy. The George Aldrich 20-acre grant was located on the north side of the Monatiquot River, in the present Braintree, on Elm St. near its intersection with Middle Street.

Some time during his stay in Braintree, George is believed to have occupied, probably as a tenant farmer, a 280-acre tract of land which was first granted in 1638/9 to Benjamin Keayne. This property was located in the northwest part of Braintree off West Street, occupied now by the Blue Hill Cemetery. It was approximately two miles west of the homestead lot, toward Great Pond. No deed of sale has been found but by 1677, it was owned in shares by various Braintree residents. Long after George and his family left Braintree for Mendon, the farm was still known as the "Aldridge Farm" (Genealogies of the Families of Braintree, Massachusetts 1640-1850, Waldo Chamberlain Sprague, pp. 124-128, Quincy Historical Society).

The location of the George Aldrich Braintree homestead and the Aldridge Farm are shown on a plan entitled Old Braintree, 1640-5, Showing the Original Grants, Ways and Paths, Early Inhabitants, and Houses, drawn by Waldo G. Sprague, 1940 (Quincy Historical Society).

The Colonial center of Mount Wollaston (Old Braintree) was located in the present City of Quincy, at Quincy Square. Here the settlers erected their meetinghouse, had a training field and located a burial ground, now the Hancock Cemetery. George Aldrich and his family would have traveled north about two miles from their homestead to attend worship services at the first meetinghouse.

The remaining seven of the eleven Aldrich children were born in Braintree.

On 9 June 1663, George and Katherine Aldrich sold their homestead lot on Elm Street to Richard Thayer (Suffolk Co. Deeds, No. 457 in Book V, 1890). For the sum of thirty pounds sterling, he sold one dwelling house, two orchards and 8 acres of land bounded by lands of Richard Thayer and Joseph Crosby, and on the south, by the Monatiquot River. Disposition of the remaining 12 acres from the original 20-acre grant is not known.

In 1659, residents of Braintree first petitioned the General Court in Boston to form a new settlement at Netmocke (now Mendon) in virgin forests located 30 miles west of their homes at Braintree. A special "Committee for Nipmug" was appointed by the Court to establish rules and regulations for the settlement. On 8 September 1662, an Indian deed was executed for the eight mile square Plantation at Netmocke.

Seven Braintree men and their families, among them George Aldrich, were the pioneers in the settlement of Mendon, arriving "before the end of the 7th month 1663" according to the Committee's rules. George's son Joseph followed shortly thereafter, but prior to 24 March 1664. They all received allotments of land and became proprietors. (Annals of the Town of Mendon from 1659 to 1880, John G. Metcalf, 1880, hereinafter Annals of ... Mendon).

A granite monument with a bronze tablet was erected at "Founders Park" in Mendon in 1906. The tablet reads: "In Memory of the Honored Founders of Mendon." Names are listed in order of settlement in the town and the first and second names are Ferdinando Thayer and George Aldrich, respectively. In all, fifteen families from Braintree were among the founders of Mendon.

In the initial allotment of land at Netmocke (Mendon), George Aldrich, as a proprietor, received a 40-acre house lot. This lot and those house lots received by other proprietors, became the foundation for all divisions of other Mendon lands thereafter, divisions of meadow, upland and swamp.

In proprietors' records, the George Aldrich house lot is described as follows:

> "--- bounded as followeth Southerly Part upon the House Lott of Danill Louet and partly upon the House Lott of Joseph Steuens Northerly upon the House Lott of John Harbur In part and Partly upon A two Rod Hiway Leading from one ten Rod hyway to the other Easterly upon a Smal Run of Water: Westerly upon the towns Comon: With A ten Rod hyway cros sd Lott" (The Proprietors' Records of the Town of Mendon, Massachusetts, Rockwell and Churchill Press, Boston, 1899, p. 201).

Reseachers of Aldrich genealogy have often puzzled over this description, trying to identify the George Aldrich 40-acre lot in relation to contemporary Mendon streets. Once one discovers that the proprietors' lots were described assuming that North Avenue, Main Street and Providence Street ran through town in a north to south direction, the task is simplified. With this assumption, Blackstone Street runs westerly off Main Street, rather than southerly which is more correct.

Using true north and the names of present streets, the description of the Aldrich house lot would more accurately read as follows:

> ...bounded as followeth: easterly partly on the house lot of Daniel Lovet and partly on the house lot of Joseph Stevens; westerly on the house lot of John Harber in part and partly on a two-rod road (Blackstone Street) leading from one ten-rod road (Main Street) to the other (Emerson Street); northerly upon a small run of water (Willow Brook); southerly on the town's common. The "ten Rod hyway cros sd Lott" is believed to be an extension of Emerson Street across Blackstone Street to the east, which existed at the time but was later abandoned.

The family dwelling house was probably located on the east side of Blackstone Street, near the east end of Emerson Street.

In addition to the house lot, the proprietors received a "dubling Lott," and subsequent divisions of meadow, upland, and swamp in other parts of the town. Those men who purchased a part of the original house lot, or received it from an estate, had proportional rights to the doubling lot and other divisions of land.

Soon after George acquired his 40-acre house lot, he deeded two thirds of the land to his sons John and Peter. The author believes that John and Peter received the southerly two thirds, leaving their father with the northerly one third, 13 1/3 acres located immediately south of the "Old Cemetery." According to Marcus M. Aldrich, the first president of the Mendon Historical Society, John's house was located on his one-third share of his father's doubling lot, directly across Main Street from the "Old Cemetery," "...in the vicinity of where the Nathan George 'Yellow house', so-called, formerly stood". Peter has not been positively traced. He may have left Mendon shortly after his marriage in 1682 (Thayer Aldrich Tribe, Marcus M. Aldrich, 1908, manuscript at Taft Public Library, Mendon, MA).

As a proprietor, Joseph had a 20-acre house lot located west of the "Old Cemetery," across Blackstone Street, a lot which extended across Main Street to the northeast. Again, Marcus Aldrich describes Joseph's dwelling as standing "...in the vicinity of where our former village blacksmith, the late John Barry, lived and died." The Barry house and the N.G. (Nathan George) house appear on a map of Mendon in the F.W. Beers & Co. Atlas of Worcester County, 1870.

Of George and Katherine's four sons, Joseph, John, Peter and Jacob, only Jacob remained in Mendon. The others are believed to have left before their father's death in 1683, or soon thereafter. In August 1683, John Warfield acquired John's land which included John's one third of George's 40-acre house lot, the 13 1/3-acre portion of the doubling lot and other lands.

Jacob came into possession of Peter's one-third of the home lot and at some time he acquired all or part of John Harbur's 35 acres located on the west side of Blackstone Street. Most of these properties remained in the hands of Jacob's heirs, passing to Jacob^3, Jacob^4, and finally to the latter's sons, Jacob^5 and Stephen^5. Finally, on 20 April 1786, the property left the Aldrich family when Rev. Caleb Alexander purchased the land together with a dwelling house and barn (Worcester District Deeds, Worcester, MA, 99:354 and 99:355).

In 1668, near what is now "Founders Park" in Mendon, the first meetinghouse was built, a structure which was burned when the town was destroyed by Indians in 1676. At a Town Meeting on 25 September 1668, "It is ordered that the Selectmen doe take care to gett the Meetinge house Erected in the Place formerly agreed on upon the best And cheapest Tearmes they can for the good of the Town; the breadth 22 foote square, 12 foote studd, the Ruffe gathered to A 7 foote square wth A Turrett" (Annals of ...Mendon, p. 34, 35).

This meetinghouse was more dignified than the log meetinghouses which the colonists built earlier. Perhaps a belfry held a bell from which a rope hung down to the floor in the center of the church. Rev. Joseph Emerson, a Harvard graduate and ancestor of Ralph Waldo Emerson, became its first "settled" minister in 1669. He received a house lot of 35 acres which was located west of John Harber, from Willow Brook south, or southwest, across Emerson Street.

It appears that George Aldrich was living in Swansea, Bristol Co., MA in 1670. The new town of Swansea was separated from Rehoboth in 1667. George Aldridge was among 65 "first signers," recorded at a town meeting held on 22 February 1669(1670?), who assented to an agreement concerning "the present and future settlement of this Township" Listed in the "second rank," he was to receive 2 acres of land. (Early Rehoboth, Vol. I, Richard LeBaron Bowen, 1945; also History of Swansea, Massachusetts, 1667 to 1917, Otis Olney Wright, 1917).

Did George Aldrich actually live in Swansea? It appears that he did. From p. 4 of the original Proprietors' Records, we find the following action taken at a Town meeting "lawfully warned the 18th of November 1670:"

> It is Agreed upon by the Town that a Plot of Ground lying and Being by the Hundred Acres Bounded on ye South West by the Meadow on the North by the Run of Water that is by the house of Georg Aldrig on the South East by a Pine Swamp with a little Neck of Land to the East: Shall be for a Burying Place.

The burying place described in the 1670 action is believed to be the present Nockum Hill cemetery located in Barrington, RI, just south of Warren Avenue in Swansea. (Barrington and Warren, RI, and Somerset, MA, were originally parts of Swansea.)

One wonders why George and Katherine, now about 65 and 60 years old, respectively, left Mendon for Swansea. Were they searching for a place having a greater degree of religious freedom? Did they embrace the Baptist religion espoused by Rev. John Miles, the Baptist minister from Wales who settled in Swansea? His meetinghouse, located about one-half mile west of the Nockum Hill cemetery, was the first Baptist church in Massachusetts, established ca. 1667.

George^1 is not known to have had a son George nor is there a record of another seventeenth century immigrant named George Aldridge. No deeds of sale for property in Swansea have been found nor has the author been successful in determining when George left Swansea. It was probably before 1675.

During the Indian uprising known as King Philip's War in 1675-1676, the Town of Swansea in Plymouth Colony was the first town to be attacked, a raid which took place in June 1675. Mendon was the first town in the Bay Colony to be attacked, for the first time on 14 July 1675. Several persons were killed by the Nipmuck Indians. There is no date as to when Mendon was completely abandoned, and no exact date when the town was burned, but it probably occurred around the first of February in 1676. Not a house was left standing, although tradition says that the house of Joseph Aldrich, George's son, was spared because he was a Quaker.

Many settlers in Mendon fled to Braintree during the uprising which essentially ended when King Philip was killed on 12 August 1676. Perhaps the Aldriches came to the "Aldridge Farm" from Swansea or Mendon. Soon after King Philip's death, settlers began to return to their land in Mendon. By 1680, George Aldrich and his sons Joseph and Peter were among the 20 heads of families.

George Aldrich, a founder of Dorchester, Braintree, Mendon, and perhaps Swansea, all in Massachusetts, died 1 March 1683. His will, dated 2 November 1682 and probated 26 April 1683 (Massachusetts State Archives, Columbia Point, Boston, Index of a "mis'l docket" book, Volume 6, p. 531), reads as follows:

> In the name of God Amen-I George Aldrich being weak in body but of sound understanding dispose of my Estate as followeth:
> Item--I leave my house and Land and whole Estate with my beloved wife during her life.
> Item--I give to my daughters Mary Aldrich, Sarah Bartlett and Mercy Randall and Martha Dunbar twelve pence apiece to be paid by my Executrix.
> Item--I give all my wearing Clothes to my eldest Son Joseph Aldrich.
> Item--I give to my son John Aldrich all my Bookes after my wifes decease.

2. Jacob^{2} Aldrich (1653-1695)

JACOB^{2} ALDRICH (George^{1}) was born at Braintree, Norfolk Co., MA, 28 February 1653(3) and died at Mendon, Worcester Co., MA, 22 October 1695(4). He married at Medfield, Norfolk Co., MA, 25 June 1675, by Charles Whelock, J.P., HULDAH THAYER(5), daughter of Ferdinando and Huldah (Hayward) Thayer, who was born at Braintree, Norfolk Co., MA, 16 June 1657(3) and died after 16 January 1707 but before 1727. Huldah Aldrich married at Mendon for a second time, 15 September 1699, Ebenezer Staples(4). According to a bronze tablet placed in 1955 in an old cemetery located on Glendale St. in Uxbridge, Jacob is buried there. Again, it is more probable that he, like his father, is buried in the "Old Cemetery" on Providence St. in Mendon.

According to the Aldrich Genealogy, p. 39, 40, "Jacob was his father's youngest son and for some reason not understood was made sole heir of his father's estate, after the death of George's widow. As there is no evidence that Jacob had a house lot of his own it is quite probable that he remained at home with his father and for that reason was made a sole heir. There is evidence that both John and Peter had a portion of their father's land set off to them before their father's death and it is possible that Joseph had the same."

As a boy of ten, Jacob accompanied his father and family when they removed from Braintree to Mendon in 1663. During King Philip's war in 1675, he went back to Braintree and soon married Huldah Thayer. After 1680, the young couple and their children returned to Mendon where they settled on the Aldrich homestead. Although Jacob is not listed among the 20 heads of families in Mendon in 1680, which included his father and brothers Joseph and Peter, he and Huldah must have returned by November when their daughter, Huldah, was born in Mendon.

In Annals of ... Mendon, Jacob Aldrich is mentioned as having been chosen Constable on 21 May 1688. On 17 July 1694, the town assembled and "chose Capt. Joseph White, Jacob Aldrich and William Holbrook as Assessors for the year ensuing." In another action that day, "It was voted that Jacob Aldrich might improve the whole tract laid out for a 'burying place,' for a pasture (only excluding all swine) so long as he shall keep it inclosed with a five-rail fence, and allow Deacon Warfield the privilege of a passage to the brook for water, he, the said Aldrich, 'to subjoine his Ingagement under his hand In the Publick Records.'" "No engagement of Jacob Aldrich being found upon record it (is) presumed that he found pasturage elsewhere, and that Dea. Warfield continued to cross the graveyard for water without let or hindrance."

After Jacob died intestate, his estate was probated in Suffolk Co., MA. The fragile remains of probate records No. 2276 are held at the Massachusetts Archives, Columbia Point, Boston. His wife, Huldah, was administrator of the estate. His real and personal property was inventoried at 267 pounds. The probate judge determined that Jacob's estate "cannot be divided to and among all the children of said deceased without great prejudice to or spoiling of the whole." As a result, the estate was sold to his son Jacob^3, with a bond whereby Jacob^3, in time, would pay his nine brothers and sisters their share, two-thirds before his mother Huldah died, and one-third after her death.

The inventory of Jacob's estate in 1695 provides a glimpse of life in seventeenth century Massachusetts, three hundred years ago:

Portion of Jacob^2 Aldrich Inventory
From His Probate Records, 1695

was very cheap, here valued at just six shillings a barrel. Colonial families drank cider two and three times a day, especially in winter when milk was scarce. It was freely given to travellers and tramps.

When Jacob died at age 42, he left ten children for Huldah to care for, from the youngest not yet one year old, to Jacob who was 19. Little wonder that Huldah married again four years later.

Children, first three born at Braintree, Norfolk Co., MA(1),(3); remainder born at Mendon, Worcester Co., MA(4):

i. JACOB, b. 7 May 1676; d. 1753(6); m., first, 15 September 1699, MARGERY HAYWARD(4); m., second, 20 April 1732, MARY (WOOD) FLETCHER(4).
ii. ABEL, b. 27 January 1678; d. aft. 1695(8).
iii. SETH, b. 6 July 1679; d. 15 October 1737(6); m., first, 3 September 1700, DEBORAH HAYWARD(4); m., second, MARY ______(1).
iv. HULDAH, b. 6 November 1680; d. aft. 1727(10); m. 13 April 1697, SAMUEL WILKINSON(4).
v. RACHEL, b. 22 February 1681; d. 25 November 1690(4).
vi. SARAH, b. 25 October 1683; m. 13 March 1710, BENJAMIN THOMPSON(4).
3. vii. DAVID, b. 23 May 1685; d. 15 March 1771; m., first, HANNAH CAPRON; m., second, MEHETIBEL MANN.
viii. PETER, b. 19 October 1686; d. 1748(6); m. HANNAH HAYWARD(1).
ix. JOHN, b. 27 November 1688; d. 25 March 1750(7); m. PENELOPE PRAY(1).
x. MOSES, b. 1 April 1690; d. 9 September 1761(6); m. 23 April 1711, HANNAH WHITE(1). At the age of 21, Moses united himself with the Society of Friends and became a well known preacher of the Quaker faith, visiting not only the Colonies on this continent but traveling to Barbados and in 1739, crossing the Atlantic to spend two years in Great Britain and Ireland. He is buried in the Friends' Burying Ground located on George Street in Mendon where a stone reads "Site of old Friends Meeting House and Cemetery where Moses Aldrich preached for thirty years."
xi. MERCY, b. 27 February 1692; d. 18 March 1693(4).
xii. RACHEL, again, b. 27 December 1694; m. SAMUEL THAYER(1).

Jacob, Jr., Seth and Peter married the Hayward sisters, Margery, Deborah and Hannah, daughters of Samuel and Mehitable (Thompson) Hayward.

Jacob and Huldah's descendants are numerous. Their sons had 65 children and with 18 children born to their three daughters, they had 83 grandchildren! What a pity that Jacob did not live to see even one of them.

3. David^3 Aldrich (1685-1771)

DAVID^3 ALDRICH (Jacob^{2}, George^{1}) was born at Mendon, Worcester Co., MA, 23 May 1685(2) and died at Mendon, Worcester Co., MA, 15 March 1771(3). He married, first, in 1710, HANNAH CAPRON, daughter of Banfield and Elizabeth (Callender) Capron, who was born at Swansea, Bristol Co., MA, 2 July 1689(5) and died at Mendon, 17 (20 g.s.) February 1732(3). He married, second, at Smithfield, Providence Co., RI, 6 July 1733(10), MEHETIBEL MANN, daughter of Thomas and Mary (Wheaton) Mann, who was born at Rehoboth, MA, 17 April 1687(11) and died, probably at Mendon, 30 March 1774(3) (g.s.). David and his two wives are buried at Scott Cemetery on Center Street in South Bellingham, located approximately two miles from his home. The single stone that marks David's and Hannah's graves is the oldest one in the cemetery. (Although David's home was in Mendon near the Bellingham line, and his will was probated in Mendon, his death as well as Hannah's and Mehetibel's, are listed in the Bellingham vital records based on their gravestone inscriptions.)

David was a blacksmith, but he undoubtedly farmed as well. "During the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries, more than 90 percent of the population lived on farms, and most farm households were largely self-sufficient" (Domestic Revolutions, A Social History of American Family Life, Mintz and Kellogg, 1988, p. 49, hereinafter Domestic Revolutions).

David became a major land holder in the town of Mendon. On 20 June 1709, the year before he married, he purchased 40 acres of land in Mendon from Samuel Thayer for the sum of 27 pounds. The land is described as "upland and meadow and meadow bottom lying and being in Mendon on the Road to Rehoboth, said Road running through it and on both sides of quick Stream on the Easterly side of the Mill

ALDRICH

1 heifer, feather bed upon which she lyeth, and my warming pan, stillyards, spice mortar, brass kettle, lanthorn, old brass kettle, little brass kettle, little iron pot, skillet. To grand-daughter Dorothy Bentley, daughter of my son Samuel 16 s. All rights in Misquamicut purchase equally to sons John and Samuel. All the rest of movable estate to daughter Susannah. Receipts were given (1714, 6, 15) by sons Samuel and John and daughters Mary and Elizabeth (all signing by mark) as having received their portions.

The Friends' Records, in recording the death of John Albro, state that he "was buried in his own orchard."

1—GEORGE.

Derbyshire, Eng., Dorchester, Boston, Braintree, Mendon, Mass.

1631, 11, 6. "God brought me to America, from Derbyshire, in England, November 6th 1631."

1636. Dorchester. Freeman.

1640, 2, 24. Boston. Granted 20 acres.

1644—1663. Braintree.

1663. Mendon. He was among the first settlers of that town and there lived the rest of his life, except a year or two at Swanzey (1669 and 1670) and a brief stay at Braintree perhaps during the Indian war of 1676.

1682, 11, 2. Will, proved 1683, 4, 26. Ex., wife, with son Jacob as overseer. Witnesses, Josiah Chapin, Joseph White. "I leave my house, land, and whole estate with my beloved wife during her life." To daughters Mary Aldrich, Sarah Bartlett, Mercy Randall, and Martha Dunbar 12 d. each. To oldest son Joseph, wearing apparel. To son John books at wife's decease. To grandchild John, son of Joseph, 30 s. "on condition that he live with his grandmother during her life, according to his father's promise." To youngest son Jacob all the lands at decease of wife.

2—JACOB.

Braintree, Mendon, Mass.

He was born at Braintree, whence he accompanied his father to Mendon.

1685. Mendon. Paid tax of 11s. 4 d. towards support of Rev. Mr. Rawson, six months.

1689. Paid £1 7 s. 9 d. tax towards support of minister.

1694. Assessor. At his decease he was called "husbandman."

During King Philip's War (1676) many of the Mendon settlers left there temporarily, amongst them Jacob Aldrich, who went back to Braintree (where his son Jacob was born) but he soon returned to Mendon, upon the restoration of peace.

1695, 11, 14. Administration upon his estate by widow Huldah; but it was not till some years later that the estate was finally divided to heirs.

1707, 1, 16. By agreement of heirs the homestead and lands were assigned to eldest son Jacob (saving the rights of Huldah the widow) at an appraisal of £100; he to pay his brothers and sisters, viz.: Abel, Seth, David, Peter, John, Moses, Huldah wife of Samuel Wilkinson, Sarah and Rachel—£6, 1s. 2½d. each, one year hence, with interest "in interim at 6 per cent"; and upon death of mother a farther sum to each of £3. 7½ d.

3—JACOB.

Braintree, Mendon, Mass.

He was born at Braintree, where his father had returned temporarily from Mendon during King Philip's War.

1704. Mendon. Paid 1s. 9d. towards the salary of the minister, Rev. Grindal Rawson.

1706. Constable.

1721, 9, 8. He received £2, 10s. for the keep of Peter Frost, a pauper.

1748, 5, 5. Will, proved 1753, 8, 23. Ex. son Jacob and son-in-law Benjamin Cragin. Witnesses, Moses Aldrich, Samuel Hayward, Moses Aldrich, Jr. To wife Mary the part of dwelling house he now lives in, with one half the backroom and one half the cellar; and the part of homestead where house stands, all for her use so long as she remains a widow. To her all money and household goods she brought to his estate, and also unconditionally £30, 1 cow, and 6 sheep. To son Jacob—"after my wife shall quit all that part of homestead I have endowed her with"—he gave his homestead on both sides the highway etc., he to provide sufficient firewood cut at the door for use of his mother, during time she shall remain widow. To Jacob also one half wearing apparel, husbandry tools, creatures, and stock. To son Noah £40 in eight annual payments of 5£ each, to be paid by Jacob. To Noah also 5 acre right in town common from and after the 11th division; and one half wearing apparel husbandry tools, and creatures and stock. Rest of movables equally to 5 daughters viz. Mercy Taft, Hannah Harwood, Experience Cragin, Bethiah Fletcher, and Margery Ammidown.

Receipts were given to their brother Jacob by all the heirs; the sisters all making mark as did also Israel Taft. The names of the husbands of Jacob's daughters are signed to receipts.

[Case No. 59,760; HEZEKIAH TOWNSEND]

Hezekiah Townsend, a husbandman of Lancaster, died intestate. Administration was granted to his widow Sarah on 4 Nov 1737, with Josiah Wheeler, yeoman and Richard Wild, housewright, all of Lancaster, as sureties on the £2,000 bond (179:326).

The inventory was taken on 4 July and 9 Aug 1737 by John Priest, Josiah Wheeler and James Keyes and totaled £1019:19:3. It included personal estate, stock, tools, and real estate worth £750. Sarah Townsend acknowledged its accuracy on 22 July 1737 (1:283-84).

A partition dated 7 Nov 1737 divided the property among the widow who received over £213 in several parcels of land and the easterly end of the house; eldest son Hezekiah who received his double share and the westerly end of the house for a total of £121+, and Benjamin, Obadiah, Thomas, Sarah and Mary Townsend who each received one share, or £60:19 in land. The division was accomplished by James Wilder, Esq., Josiah White, James Keyes, Josiah Wheeler and John Priest, all of Lancaster (1:302).

On 10 Aug 1741, another bond was posted by John Fletcher, yeoman, and Sarah Fletcher his wife, "late wife of Hezekiah Townsend of Lancaster, Deceased," both of Bolton. John Fletcher of Lancaster was surety, and the bond covered Sarah's dower, or thirds of her husband's estate, which was to be returned to her heirs at her death (615:351). A receipt dated 18 July 1757 for £210, representing the depreciated amount of the dower, was signed by Isaac Moore for himself, Hezekiah Townsend and the heirs of Hezekiah Townsend, Dec'd; Oliver Wilder as atty. for Oliver Wilder Jr. and Oba^h Townsend.

[Case No. 54,387; JESSE SMITH]

Administration on the estate of Jesse Smith, husbandman of Shrewsbury, was granted to his widow, Experience Smith, with Zebediah Smith, a clothier of Grafton, and Daniel Garfield, husbandman of Shrewsbury, as sureties. The Adm. Bond was dated 5 Oct 1737 and was in the amount of £300 (179:189).

John Keyes, Daniel Garfield and Samuel Crosby took the inventory on 31 Oct 1737 and it was acknowledged on 7 Nov by Experience Smith (1:284-85). The estate came to £1126:10 in stock, tools and furniture. No real estate was listed. On 7 Nov 1737 the estate was declared insolvent.

[Case No. 1,008; SETH ALDRICH]

Seth Aldrich Sen., a farmer of Uxbridge, made his will on 26 Sept 1737, and it was presented for probate on 9 Nov 1737 at Woodstock. To wife Mary he left one-third of the movables and one-half of the homestead income until son Samuel should reach maturity; then one-third of the income for life as long as she remained his widow. If wife Mary should "Se Cause" to remarry, she would receive only one-fourth of the income. Aldrich left £100 to son William, and to his son Jonathan and to "his Heirs of his Body Lawfully Begotten" he left the land purchased from Edward Bosworth and all the adjoining land; also ten acres of common and undivided land and a young mare colt. To son Samuel, he left the homestead on which the father then lived, the adjoining wood lot abutting William Robinson, a cedar swamp, and one-half the income of the homestead "as is necessary to instruct him in Reading & Wrighting & Cyphering." The rest of the income of the homestead was also to go to Samuel once he had been educated, and he was to pay his sister Elizabeth Aldrich £50. To his four daughters, viz: Sarah Richardson, Susanna Willy, Dinah Aldrich and Abigail Aldrich he left equal portions of lands adjoining the wood land known as Great Chestnut. To daughter Deborah Aldrich he left a lot of land on Rattle Snake Hill and all the "over plus money" raised by the executor from the sale of Baiting Pond Farm after paying William his £100. He also left Deborah all the undivided land otherwise undisposed of. Two-thirds of the movables were to be equally divided among all the children except William; son Abel Aldrich and friend Moses Farnum were named as executors and instructed to sell the farm [Moses Farnum declined to administer). Son Jonathan was instructed to "carry himself well," and Dinah's portion was not to be distributed to her all at once. The witnesses to this will were John Spring, Joseph Aldrich, and Edmund Rawson (1:285-87).

The inventory of Seth Aldrich's estate was taken by Benjamin Taft and Edmund Rawson, both of Uxbridge, and Samuel Thayer Sen. of Mendon on 25, 26 & 29 Oct 1737. Son Jonathan's farm was valued at £180; the "4 daughters farm" at £200; Baiting Pond Farm at £100; daughter Deborah Aldrich's farm at £60, and the homestead, woodlot and cedar swamp at £2070 (1:287-89).

Peter Aldrich, Benjamin Taft and Moses Farnum divided the homestead between the widow Mary and son Samuel, a minor who chose Samuel Thayer as guardian (2:225).

An agreement dated 9 Nov 1737 was signed by the heirs, viz: Seth and Jacob Aldrich, sons of the deceased; Isaac Richardson who married daughter Sarah; John Wyley who married daughter Susana; Edward Aldrich who married daughter Dinah; Samuel Thayer as guardian to Jonathan, Abigail, and Deborah Aldrich, and the widow who was guardian of Samuel and Elizabeth Aldrich, all children of the deceased. After having contested the will, they asked by this agreement that it be approved and agreed that Abel Aldrich should proceed with the distribution under certain conditions regarding covering the debts of the deceased. In case of any further dispute, they agreed to submit to friends Benjamin Taft, Jonathan Baron, Gershom Keith, and Moses Farnum, all of Uxbridge, and Seth Chapin, Jr. of Mendon, or any three of them (234:64).

The distribution was made of the personal estate and an itemized list of what was delegated to each child is dated 26 Nov 1737 (1:302). Abel filed his first account on 20 Oct 1737 and his final account on 19 Aug 1742, listing several trips to Worcester, Mendon, Bellingham, and Smithfield [RI] necessary to settle the estate (2:172).

[Case No. 35,697; JOSIAH KNIGHT]

Josiah Knight, bricklayer of Harvard, died intestate without a wife or children. Administration was granted to his father, Edward Knight, cordwainer, who posted an £800 bond on 13 Sep 1737 with Edward Knight Jr. and Daniel Knight, all of Worcester, as sureties (177:112).

An inventory taken on 18 Jan 1737/8 by Daniel Hubbard, James How and Isaac Miller Jr., and shown by Edward Knight, administrator, included 100 acres in Worcester valued at £200, debts to the estate of over £167, apparel, stock and tools. No household furnishings were listed. It was recorded on 25 Jan 1737/8 (1:289). The estate was assigned to the father, Edward Knight, on 13 May 1743 (2:248).

HAYWARD-HOWARD LINE

Inasmuch as the Hayward-Howards are quite fully covered else-where, we shall here sketch a somewhat bare-leafed tree, showing our own line and how it connects with our Osborn-Smith one.

I. WILLIAM HAYWARD, b. England, drowned Braintree, Mass., 10 May 1659; m. Margery ((???)), who d. 18 March(?) 1676. Perhaps she was either the Margery Harding or Margery Barron, each aged about 19, who were on the "Ann and Elizabeth" when a William Hayward, aged 18, arrived in New England. It is thought that William Hayward operated a ferry between Weymouth and Braintree and that he had his home close to the sea. The chil. of William and Margery Hayward:

1) Huldah2, b. 1636, d. Mendon, Mass., 1 Sept. 1690; m. Braintree, Mass., 14 Jan. 1652/3 Ferdinando Thayer, b. Thornbury, Eng., 18 Apr. 1625, d. Mendon 28 Mar. 1713, son of Thomas and Margery (Wheeler) Thayer of Braintree. Their farm on the Monatiquot River was owned by descendants for 200 years. Their chil. (Thayer) the first six b. Braintree, the last six in Mendon were:

Sarah3, Huldah, Jonathan, David, Naomi, Thomas, Samuel, Isaac, Josiah, Ebenezer, and David.

2) Jonathan, b. ca. 1641, d. Braintree 21 Nov. 1690; m. 6 May 1663 Sarah Thayer, who d. 1690, dau. Richard of Braintree. Had 14 chil.

3) Samuel, b. 4 Jan. 1642, d. Mendon 29 July 1713; m. 1) Mehitable Thompson, who d. 1713, dau. John and Sarah (???); m. 2) 15 Jan. 1701 Elizabeth (Sabin) Miller, b. 1642, d. 7 Feb. 1717, dau. Wm. Sabin, wid. of Robt. Miller.

+4) William, b.((???)), d. Braintree 17 Dec. 1717. Our line; see below.

II. WILLIAM, b.(???), d. Braintree 17 Dec. 1717, while on a visit; m. 1) SARAH BUTTERWORTH, b. Rehoboth, Mass., 28 May 1653 (Rehoboth Vital Recs.), d. before 1708, dau. JOHN and SARAH (???); m. 2) 6 May 1708 Priscilla (Tompkins) Marsh, dau. of John and Margaret Tompkins and widow of Sam. Marsh of Salem. No chil. by 2nd wife. Howard 2699

Samuel Howard, taylor was given a house lot (in Boston) and a great lot at the Mount for three heads Feb.19,1637(8). Was he the Samuel Hayward of Charlestown and Malden?

Howard - See Hayward 2700

Hayward, Haward, Howard 2345

The name Hayward which was usually the form of the name as found in Braintree was in early times sometimes given as Haward and also Howard. Descendants of William Hayward of Braintree who remained in Braintree proper continued that form of the name for the most part, but those who settled in present Randolph came to use the form Howard by the middle of the eighteenth century, although even the same individual was often known under both forms of the name. Probate records are given various ways in the index.

There were two men named William Hayward in Boston in the early period. It is not known at what time the Braintree man came to New England and acquired land in Boston, which he is known to have done by his widow's sale of it in 1670.

The other William Hayward, Haywood, or Howard presumably is the individual who was in Charlestown in 1637, deputy 1641, and removed to Hampton where he was clerk from 1643 to 1647 but returned to Boston soon after and acquired a house and land at the east end of present Hanover St. He is sometimes referred to as Lt. William Hayward and apparently of good education as he was frequently mentioned in affairs. He died in 1674 leaving a widow Alice who died in 1681 and they were buried at Copps Hill Cemetery. He is the one mentioned in the Book of Possessions as an abutter when James Everill sold land in Boston 22(6)1649 to John Stevenson at the easterly end of present Hanover St.

Hayward 2346

William1 Hayward of Braintree seems to be first of record in the Weymouth land grants. A record of landed possessions in Weymouth was made in 1643 similar to the Book of Possessions commenced in Boston in 1645. The possessions of William Hayward are not shown but he is twice there mentioned as abutter to owners of land in Weymouth, Henry Kingman, and James Smith.
On Mar.19,1648 William Hayward of Weymouth bought 20 acres of upland in Braintree " being as it were a neck of land, having the river on the east" from John Whitman of Weymouth. (S.D. 2-64) and in 1691 his grandson Jonathan Hayward received a confirmation of the above from the same John Whitman, also some salt marsh adjoining, in each transaction. This homestead remained in the family for generations. It lies on Fore River at the mouth of Pease's or Hayward's Creek just within the present bounds of Braintree where part of the Fore River ship yard now is located. The last occupant of the Hayward name was Miss Annah Hayward who died in Nov.1936 and whose house stands on the west side of Quincy Ave. south of Hayward's Creek.
William1 Hayward was a boatman or seaman and was drowned May 10,1659. His wife Margery presented an inventory of his estate (S.P. 3-328), 70 acres, dwelling house, barn, and orchard, and garden, and 5 acres in Weymouth, 2 a. salt marsh, etc., no mention being made of property in Boston, yet on May 25,1670 widow Margery Hayward sold "all that my piece and parcel of land and dwelling house lying in Boston" (S.D. 7-155).

In 1695 Samuel Hayward and William Hayward, surviving children of William Hayward of Braintree deceased, boatman, or, seaman, brought suit against John Green and Benjamin Fitch of Boston for

William1 Hayward of Braintree

S.P.3-145 (-238) Inventory, Jul.8,1659 by Henry Kingman, John Rogers, John French œ195/5/6.

70 a. adjoining house, barn, orchard, & garden
5 a. in Weymouth
2 a. salt marsh
1 a. wheat, 2 a. peas, - a. Indian corn growing on the land
2 muskets, 2 swords, a dagger, etc.

Jun.14,1659, Administration granted to Margery, his late wife on behalf of self and children, Margery Heywood deposed.

S.D.3-64 - John Whitman to William Hayward of Weymouth, 20 a. upland & 2 a. salt, Mar.19,1648 & described in a deed of confirmation from John Whitman to John3 Hayward Jan.6,1691 as bounded N. by salt water or mouth of the creek commonly called Pease's Creek, easterly and southerly by land commonly called Moore's Land now in the possession of the said Jonathan Hayward, westerly by land of John French Sr. This latter deed was in possession of the said Jonathan Hayward and is thought not to have been recorded.

withholding possession of a house and land on Hudson's or Wing's Lane, near the town dock which was formerly William Hayward's of which he died seized and possessed. This was acknowledged and recorded Dec.5,1701 (S.D. 20-463) in which Samuel Howard, Josiah Thear of Mendham (Josiah Thayer of Mendon was a grandson) and Jonathan Howard of Braintree quit claim for œ12 to the said house and lands. Apparently widow Margery Hayward had sold without the consent of her children and heirs. This land was on present Elm St. on the west side near Dock Square in Boston and may have came to her by inheritance since no record of purchase by her husband is now of record. Her identity has long been sought and claims made that she was Margery Harding or Margery Knight, but without definite proof. This lot in Boston seems to be the one listed in the Book of Possessions as property of Samuel Greames (or Grame) who also had a grant at Braintree, or of Sarah Knight next door to him. It is also worthy of note that Ezekiel Knight owned land at Braintree (Knight's of Quincy Neck) close to the Hayward homestead. Widow Margery Hayward died Jul.18,1676, administration on estate given Aug.1,1676 to Jonathan, oldest son. The above "house and land of the late William Hayward" in Boston is mentioned as an abutter in S.D. 6-7 in Feb.22,1668(9).
William Hayward of Lime house (London), mariner & Margery Knight were married 10 October 1633 at St. Dumstans, Stepney, London. The time is about right, and the occupation as mariner seem to point to this being the marriage of the Braintree settler, but there is no conclusive evidence to confirm the presumption. The finding of a baptismal record of a daughter Huldah in this parish would confirm it.
William Hayward and Lawrence Copeland witnessed a deed Oct.13,1654 (S.D. 2-87) of James Everill to Simon Lynde.

Jonathan2 (William1) Hayward born about 1641.

died Nov.21,1690 a.49, gs., Hancock Cem., Quincy (sic) (error) should be 1689.

married May 6,1663 Sarah Thayer, born near 1644 at Braintree, died - (alive May 1692), dau. of Thomas2 & Hannah (or Annah)(-) Thayer.

"Jonathan Hayward, his cart being laden with wood oversetting pinched his body against a tree whereof after a day or two he dyed, ammo, 89" (Braintree Rec.) (sic).
His will dated Nov.19,1689 proved Dec.26,1689 (S.D. 2-129, New Series) mentions wife Sarah, oldest son Jonathan executor and gives to son William land that was formerly my brother Samuel's, mentions sons Samuel & Benjamin, daughter Hannah Mills, and daughters Huldah, Deborah, and Sarah, under 18 years. He inherited the homestead of his father as the other children all left town, and bequeathed it to his son Jonathan. "Breakneck Hill" on Liberty St. south of Plain St. is traditionally the site of his fatal accident, but this is very doubtful as it was not near his home and this road was not laid out until 1715.

Hayward 2349

Jonathan2 (William1) Hayward born about 1641.

S.P.2-129 N.S. - Will of Jonathan Hayward, Nov.19,1689 - Dec.26,1689, Eldest son Jonathan sole executor:

Samuel Hayward removed to Mendon early, perhaps with his sister Huldah (Hayward) Thayer in 1663, and his children were born there except during the period of King Philip's War when Mendon was abandoned and the houses burned as was that of Ferdinando and Huldah Thayer, during which period they returned to Braintree where his daughter Sarah was born and children Sarah and Hannah baptized. He still owned a part of Braintree homestead at this time as shown by the record of a highway laid out for "several of the inhabitants that dwell in the eastward part of Monitiquot" Mar.18,1677/8, but later sold to his brother Jonathan as mentioned in the latter's will. He took the oath of allegiance at Braintree about 1678.

Samuel Howard admitted to full communion Jan.26,1706(7), Mary Payne, daughter of Moses admitted Jun.6,1708, so they were probably married in late 1708 or early 1709. He very soon became non-compos mentes as shown by the petition of Mary Hayward, wife of Samuel Hayward of Braintree (S.P. 15-44-,46, New Series) dated Jan.12,1727/8, that "about eighteen years ago he became melancholy, and after that greatly distracted and so continued for a time, and although he grew better and was capable of business for a time, yet at length his distraction returned and he grew very extravagant and outrageous which rendered it very dangerous for me and my children to be with him. I was hereby necessitated to leave him ... and depart to my father's house for safety. It is now eight years since I was forced thus to leave him etc. He seems to grow worse, and takes no care of the estate nor of himself or family... His relations have taken some care of him at times for three or four years but he being very unruly... would run away from them wandering all over the town and working (as the fit took him) sometimes for one and sometimes for another. The housing and the orchard are much decayed.... and likely to be almost wholly lost.... therefore pray your honor to direct and assist me." The selectmen concur. Jonathan Howard, nephew appointed guardian with Joshua & Ebenezer Lampson, bricklayer of Boston bonded, Jan.29,1727, and his son Samuel was appointed guardian in 1738.

Resided in Quincy at Fort Square in the old Fort house on Fort St. which he purchased in 1707 from Samuel & Peter sons of Christopher Webb (S.D. 34-183) who perhaps lived here.

The first settlement of Dover, as well as of New Hampshire, is involved in some obscurity. Unlike the "Pilgrim Fathers" who landed on Plymouth Rock, no records have been found which fix beyond doubt the time when or the manner in which the settlers upon the Piscataqua first landed on its shores.

For more than two hundred years, on the authority of Hubbard, Prince, and other early historians, followed by Belknap, the facts in relation to these settlements, briefly stated, and generally accepted, were, that Sir Ferdinando Gorges and Captain John Mason having obtained from the Council constituted by the King of England, "for the planting, ruling and governing of New England," a grant of all the land between the Rivers Merrimack and Sagadehock, extending back to the great lakes and river of Canada, formed a company with several merchants of London and other cities, and styling themselves "the company of Laconia," attempted the establishment of a colony and fishery at the mouth of the Piscataqua river. For this purpose in the spring of 1623, they sent out David Thomson and Edward and William Hilton, who had been fishmongers in London, with a number of other people, in two divisions, furnished with all the necessaries for carrying out the design. DOVER POINT — The First Settlement

The first settlement of Dover, as well as of New Hampshire, is involved in some obscurity. Unlike the "Pilgrim Fathers" who landed on Plymouth Rock, no records have been found which fix beyond doubt the time when or the manner in which the settlers upon the Piscataqua first landed on its shores.

For more than two hundred years, on the authority of Hubbard, Prince, and other early historians, followed by Belknap, the facts in relation to these settlements, briefly stated, and generally accepted, were, that Sir Ferdinando Gorges and Captain John Mason having obtained from the Council constituted by the King of England, "for the planting, ruling and governing of New England," a grant of all the land between the Rivers Merrimack and Sagadehock, extending back to the great lakes and river of Canada, formed a company with several merchants of London and other cities, and styling themselves "the company of Laconia," attempted the establishment of a colony and fishery at the mouth of the Piscataqua river. For this purpose in the spring of 1623, they sent out David Thomson and Edward and William Hilton, who had been fishmongers in London, with a number of other people, in two divisions, furnished with all the necessaries for carrying out the design. Thomson landed at the river's mouth at a place which he called Little Harbor, where he built a house, afterwards known as "Mason Hall," erected Salt Works, and made other preparations for carrying on his business, but the Hiltons set up their fishing stages eight miles farther up the river on a neck of land which the Indians called Winnichahannet, but they named it Northam and afterwards Dover. Thomson, not being pleased with his company or situation, removed the next spring, or in a short time after, to an island in Massachusetts bay, where he subsequently lived and soon after died, while the Hiltons and their associates remained and made a permanent settlement in Dover.

All efforts to ascertain the precise date of their arrival, or the ship in which they came, had proved unavailing. The day of the month and the month were unknown. In 1823, at the celebration of the 200th anniversary of the settlement of the State, at Portsmouth, when it was considered desirable to fix upon the day of their arrival, if possible, for the purpose of suitably observing it, all efforts to do so were found to be in vain. It was then authoritatively stated by Mr. Savage, the most learned antiquarian of that day, that "Prince, the most laborious of all antiquaries in New England, in 1736, could give no precise date, and no discovery of documents since has made it more definite" than that they arrived in the spring of the year. From the fact that no vessel was known to have arrived from England in that year until about the 1st of June, it was conjectured that the colonists might have been landed at the Piscataqua late in May, and the 23rd of that month was accordingly selected for the celebration.

These statements remained unquestioned and were incorporated into all our histories and school books, until a document found in 1875 among the ancient papers of Governor Winthrop, then in possession of his descendant, the Hon. Robert C. Winthrop, gave a different reading to our early history. This document is an indenture, dated Dec. 14, 1622, between David Thomson on the one part, and three merchants, Abraham Colmer, Nicholas Sherwill and Leonard Pomroy, all of Plymouth, England, on the other part. A copy of it was, soon after its discovery, published in the proceedings of the Massachusetts Historical Society, with notes by Charles Deane, Esq., an eminent antiquary.

The indenture recites that the Council for New England had granted to Thomson (Oct. 16, 1622), 6000 acres of land and one island in New England, and that Thomson had conveyed one quarter part of the island to the three merchants named and agreed also to convey to them one quarter part of the 6000 acres, on these conditions:

1. That the three merchants, at their own charge, should provide and send that present year two men with Thomson, in the ship Jonathan of Plymouth, to New England, with such victuals, provisions, &c., as shall suffice them till they are landed.

2. The three merchants, at their own charge, were also to provide and send the same year, three additional men in the ship Providence of Plymouth, if they could so soon be gotten, or in some other ship, to New England; the charges of these three men to be borne equally by all the parties.

3. Two other men were also to be sent the same year in the Jonathan; the charges to be borne by all the parties equally.

4. Thomson with the seven men as soon as landed was to find a fit place and make choice of 6000 acres of land and a fit place to settle and erect buildings.

Further provision was made for dividing the property at the end of five years agreeably to the indenture, three fourths to Thomson and one fourth to the other three. Three fourths of the charge for planting, building, &c., was to be borne by Thomson, and one fourth by the others. All the profits from fishing, trading, &c., were to be divided equally, the three merchants having liberty to employ the ships to fish, at their own charge, if Thomson did not choose to bear his share of such charge.

From this agreement it appears reasonably certain that Thomson did come over as stipulated, arriving at the mouth of the Piscataqua sometime in the spring of 1623, as Hubbard has recorded. By the indenture he was to proceed "this present year" (1622). By the method of reckoning at that time the year ended on the 24th of March following. It is equally certain, however, that he did not come out as the agent of the Company of Laconia, for that company was not then in existence, not having been formed until 1631. This error appears to have originated with Dr. Belknap, who knew that Mason and Gorges had a grant (Aug. 10, 1622), embracing the territory between the Merrimack and Sagadehock, which they intended to call the Province of Maine, but of which they never made any use, as the council afterwards made other grants covering the same territory. Dr. Belknap also knew that Mason and Gorges with other persons were members of the Company of Laconia. From this and some statements of Hubbard he doubtless concluded that the grant of 1622 was the Laconia grant, and that the associates, under the name of the Company of Laconia, began the settlement at Little Harbor and Hilton's point in 1623. It is now known that the Laconia patent was not issued until Nov. 17, 1629, and the company was formed soon after.

There is no evidence in the indenture that the Hiltons were associated with Thomson in the enterprise, either as partners or servants. From this fact an attempt has been made by Mr. Deane and others to discredit the statement of Hubbard, and it has been contended that the Hiltons never saw Dover until five or six years after Thomson and his party landed at Little Harbor, or at least that no settlement could have been made in 1623 as has been generally believed.

To establish this position it is alleged that no such place was known to or once spoken of by any of the visitors of Thomson, of whom there were several, during the years 1623 and 1624; that it is absurd to suppose that Edward Hilton, without any colony to assist him, should have gone so far from the succor of his friends into the wilderness in the midst of treacherous and cruel savages when the whole country practically lay open before him to go in and occupy where he would; that the "stages" which it is alleged were set up at the Point were "large and expensive structures" intended for use in the fishing business, and that "no experienced fisherman would have selected such a site for a fishing establishment, five or six miles above the mouth of the Piscataqua, a stream of such rapidity that it is often impossible for a boat to contend against it, while the great cod fisheries are several miles out at sea, which a fisherman leaving Hilton's Point at the very turn of the ebb tide could not reach and return from the same day, if he stopped to cast his hook." (J. S. Jenness's Notes on the First Settlements on the Piscataqua.)

As to the fact of priority of settlement, if a mere fishing and trading post is to be regarded as such, it may be admitted that at Little Harbor (now in the town of Rye) the first planting of New Hampshire was commenced. There is no doubt that Thomson and his men first disembarked at or near that place, and pitched their tents or erected such huts as were requisite for shelter. The question is, who came with him? We only know that seven men were to be furnished to assist him. Four were to come over with him in the Jonathan, and three more were to be provided the same year.

It is admitted, and it is reasonable to conclude, that Edward Hilton may have come over from England in one of the vessels which brought David Thomson and his men to the Piscataqua, on his own account, if not as an assistant of Thomson, as Hubbard asserts. The Hiltons had been fishmongers in London, and were acquainted with at least one branch of the business in which Thomson was to engage. They were just the men who would be selected to assist in the enterprise. William Hilton had previously been in America. He came to Plymouth in 1621, and his wife and two children came over in 1623. He may have gone back and returned with them, or they may have come over to join him here. Hubbard, who wrote in 1680, is supposed to have been personally acquainted with the Hiltons, and must have had some knowledge of their history and movements. William Hilton had a grant of land in Plymouth in 1623, but he left that place soon after, apparently on account of some disagreement in relation to church matters, and is found next at Piscataqua with his brother.

As the business of Thomson and his assistants was to be fishing, and trading with the Indians, it is not probable that they would all remain permanently in the same place. The Hiltons, with one or more of the party, after seeing the others safely established at the mouth of the river, may have come up to the Point, as Hubbard records. Or, as the party is said to have come over in "two divisions," it is more probable that they did not arrive until after Thomson and the four men who came in the Jonathan had established themselves at Little Harbor. Of the other three who were to be provided and sent over in the Providence, the Hiltons may have been two. The tradition has always been that Thomas Roberts was one of the original emigrants with them. If he was this would complete the number which was to be provided.

The distance between Little Harbor and the Point, as the crow flies, is but six or seven miles and the location at the Point was doubtless at first selected for the convenience of trading with the Indians about the falls of the Cochecho, a favorite resort with them. It was also in the vicinity of good fishing ground, for the various branches of the Piscataqua, up to their first falls, must at that day (as they did long after and do now at some seasons), have swarmed with fish, and there was no need of going far to cast the hook and obtain them.

It is not supposed that a party of three men, at the most, would go miles at sea to the great fishing grounds to obtain fish when there was an abundance of fish so near them, or that large and expensive stages were required for curing them. By the terms of the indenture the owners of the Jonathan were to pursue the fishing business independently of Thomson and his men, if he did not choose to bear part of the charge. It is probable that the vessels from England attended to the deep sea fishing, while the parties on shore confined their operations to the harbor and rivers.

Harbor in 1623 and 1624, the same may be said of the other men who were with Thomson. The name of no man who was with him — and there were seven — is known unless we accept the statement of Hubbard.

It may have been that the fishing and trading post at the Point was at the outset regarded rather as a temporary than a permanent settlement, a place to which at first they resorted only during the day, returning at night to the common rendezvous at the mouth of the river. But its advantages must have been soon seen and appreciated. The "whole country was open before them to go in and occupy where they would," and they could hardly have found a more inviting place than the Point, either for fishing, planting, or trading with the Indians, exchanging such articles as they brought with them from England for the Beaver skins and other peltries of the Indians. For safety no resort could have been better than this narrow neck of land, and from which by their boats there were such immediate means of escape, if escape was at any time necessary. For planting also, in which they were to engage, so far at least as they could contribute to their own wants, the Point was of all places the spot which they would select, far preferable to any land nearer to Little Harbor.

Thomson's enterprise, it appears, was not a success. He abandoned it after about three years' residence (by some accounts "the next year"), and removed to Massachusetts, Hubbard says, "out of dislike either to the place or his employers." He never set up any claim afterwards to the patent, nor does it appear that his partners in England reaped any advantages from it. Thomson's men are supposed to have remained at Little Harbor after his departure, but even this is uncertain. The only evidence that it was occupied is that there was a settlement somewhere at "Pascataquack," besides Hilton's in 1628, and that such settlement paid two pounds ten shillings as its contribution for expelling Morton from Merry Mount. What is there more probable than that the Hiltons may have remained at the Point or in its vicinity, with some of the other men of the company, after Thomson left?

If, as it is alleged, there is no authentic information of Edward Hilton being in this vicinity previous to 1627 or 1628, the information which we get of him at that time is sufficient to show that he must then have been settled here for some years and that he had a considerable stake in the country. In 1628, as recorded by Bradford, he was assessed one pound towards the expense of the war upon Morton of Merry Mount, already alluded to, the whole expense of the campaign being twelve pounds seven shillings, of which the Plymouth colony paid two pounds ten shillings, or but little more than twice the amount contributed by Hilton. It is also evident that the Hiltons must have been among the men that the partners of Thomson provided and sent over in 1623, from the fact that we find them settled so near to Little Harbor, on territory which must have been included within that which Thomson's patent covered, or was supposed to cover, where they would not have been, by any right, had they not been connected with Thomson's company, and that when in 1630 Edward Hilton obtained a patent from the Council of Plymouth of the land upon which he had settled, he had been for some considerable time established thereon. So long, in fact, that the place had come to be known by his name, for we read that his patent included "all that part of the river Piscataqua called or known by the name of Hilton's Point, with the south side of said river, up to the falls of Squamscot and three miles into the main land for breadth," and it sets forth that Hilton and his associates had transported thither servants, built houses and planted corn, and intended the further increase and advancement of the plantation.

It is asked if it can be believed "that Hilton founded a plantation at Hilton's Point in 1623, seven years before he got a deed of the land"? In reply it may be said that if, as it is presumed, he came out with or soon after Thomson, we have seen for what purpose he came. He was one of the men sent out by Thomson's partners, the merchants in England, to assist in the enterprise, if not as a representative of their interest in it. He had no legal claim in his own name to the soil under the patent. Thomson gave up his claim and went off before the expiration of the five years when the profits of the enterprise as well as the land were to be divided between the parties. The patent granted was evidently regarded by him as of little value, because neither he, or his heirs, ever afterwards set up any effective claim to it. All the interest which they possessed at Little Harbor passed into the hands of the Laconia company of which Gorges and Mason were chiefs, under a new grant from the Council, when Edward Hilton, it may be assumed, finding himself abandoned by Thomson, for his own security and that of the company by which he had been employed, obtained (in 1630) a new patent for the settlement at the Point. This patent he afterwards sold in part to other parties, who appointed Captain Thomas Wiggin their agent, by whom, in 1633, a considerable acquisition was obtained to the population.

The Laconia company, in the meantime, having obtained possession of the lands granted to Thomson at Little Harbor, appointed Captain Neal as their agent, not for the settlement of a colony, but for the management of a fishing and trading company, a speculation similar to that in which Thomson had been engaged. At or about this time (1631) the headquarters of the company were removed from Little Harbor to Portsmouth, or the "Bank," as it was called, where the "Great House" was built and occupied by those employed. In a few years this company broke up and the servants were discharged; the whole scheme proving a failure. On a division of the property Mason bought the shares of some of his associates and sent over a new supply of men, set up saw mills, and soon after died.

The Thomson house erected at Little Harbor in 1623, though built of stone, could have been no such substantial structure as has been assumed for it. It is not probable that "it presented the general appearance of the dwelling houses of the time of James I, vast numbers of which still remain in good preservation all over the old country." (Jenness.) Had it been of this character it would hardly have been reduced to the dilapidated condition in which it was found by Hubbard in 1680, less than sixty years after its erection, when only "the chimney and some parts of the stone wall were standing." It is probable that as it must have been hastily built, it only sufficed for the immediate needs of Thomson and his little party, as a shelter from the elements. "Mason Hall," or the Great House, as it has been styled, was located at Strawberry Bank (now Portsmouth), probably as a more suitable location for carrying on the business of the settlement, while the station at Little Harbor was abandoned. Such as it was, it passed into the hands of Mason's men, and was sometimes called his "stone house," though it is now conceded the term "Mason Hall" was never, as has been popularly supposed, applied to it.

This summary account of the early settlement of Hilton's Point, written in 1876, is now fully corroborated by additional cumulative evidence. This as well as the substantial accuracy of Hubbard's narrative is confirmed by the discovery in the Court files of Suffolk County of the Petition of William

A Servant was one who served a patron or employer in any capacity, with or without remuneration."

David 1) THOMSON was born 1592 at Clerkenwell Parish, London, England - his father died Aug 1603 when he was 11 years of age - David had two living brothers, Golde b 1587 was 16 years old and Moses 1589 - was 2 1/2 years old. About this time Sir Ferdinando Gorges was sent to Plymouth, Devon, England. He took David and his mother Florence and younger brother Moses with him. There David was taught along with the children of Sir Ferdinando Gorges- When David was old enough, he was given to Dr Richard VINES as his apprentice - this was the start of a life long relationship between David and Dr Richard VINES-

When Sir Ferdinando Gorges arranged for some sea-going commercial venture, Dr VINES who was a competent mariner could go as Gorges' representative - looking for ways to bring about trade in pharmaceutics. David also went and at the same time continuing his training with Dr VINES, and learning to become a seaman and mariner as well as an apothecary- This was on the 'MARY AND JOHN' under Captain Gilbert and the navigator James DAVIES who were instructed to his protégé David THOMSON the opportunities to learn the mariners trade - and also serve as the an interpreter in dealing with the Indians - this was in 1607.

After Sir Ferdinando Gorges was re-instated as Governor of Plymouth Fort in 1603 the construction continued - Plymouth is where Amias COLE lived with her father William and step mother - her mother Agnes BRYANT had died 6 Aug 1598 - Amias and David were married 13 July 1613 at St Andrews Church, Plymouth, Devonshire, England - Amias was only 15 years of age. They were parents of 4 children;

1. Ann b 18 Sep 1615 buried 4 Oct 1615 bur St Andrews Ch Yard, Plymouth, Devon, England
2. Prissilla b Oct 1616 stayed in England with her grandparents

3. John b Jan 1618 came to NE with his parents
4. Ann b Nov 1620 - buried 26 Nov 1620 at St Andrews church yard, Plymouth, Devon, England

David THOMSON built a fort called Pannaway Fort during the Spring and Summer of 1621 - they built a strong and large house, enclosed it with a large and high Palizado and mounted guns, and being stored extra ordinarily with shot and ammunition was a terror to the Indians - This house and fort he built on a point of land at the very entrance of Pascatoway River." The Ordnance for the fort was brought over and installed in 1622 - In 1623 David brought his wife and son John and servants to Pannaway Fort- in New England

They moved to the Island about 1624 - in what would later be called Thomson's Island - Samuel MAVERICK who lived on Noodles Island also in the Bay and now the site of Logan Airport - was a friend to them -

David 1) THOMSON died in 1628 - his widow Amias [COLE] married as her 2nd husband Samuel 2) MAVERICK [also my direct line] and had 3 more children - Nathaniel, Samuel and Mary MAVERICK.

FAMILY MEMORIAL.

PART I.

OF
FOURTEEN FAMILIES
OF THE
Early Settlers of New-England,
OF THE NAMES OF
ALDEN, ADAMS, ARNOLD, BASS, BILLINGS, CAPEN, COPELAND, FRENCH, HOBART, JACKSON,
PAINE, THAYER, WALES AND WHITE,
FROM THEIR FIRST SETTLEMENT IN THIS COUNTRY, TO ABOUT THE MIDDLE OF THE LAST CENTURY.
WITH OCCASIONAL NOTES AND REFERENCES, BIOGRAPHICAL SKETCHES, MEMOIRS OF SOME DISTINGUISHED INDIVIDUALS, EPITAPHS, &c.
COLLECTED FROM ANCIENT RECORDS, MANUSCRIPTS, AND PRINTED WORKS.

All these families are more or less connected by marriage, and most of them of late generations, the descendants of JOHN ALDEN.

PART II.

OF
EPHRAIM AND SARAH THAYER, WITH THEIR
FOURTEEN CHILDREN;
FROM THE TIME OF THEIR MARRIAGE TO 1835, WITH NOTES OF REFERENCE, &c. AS IN PART FIRST.

BY ELISHA THAYER, DEDHAM, MASS.

"Aye, thus it is, one generation comes,
Another goes and mingles with the dust,
And thus we come and go, and come and go,
Each for a little moment, filling up
Some little place—and thus we disappear
In quick succession, and it shall be so
Till time in one vast perpetuity
Be swallowed up."—ANON.

HINGHAM:
J. FARMER, PRINTER.
1835.

No. 79. THOMAS THAYER,

the progenitor of a numerous offspring, (distinct from the foregoing family, although there have been many intermarriages between them,) came to New England at an early period of its settlement, with his wife Margery, and three sons, Thomas, Ferdinando, and Shadrach. He was admitted freeman in 1647. They lived in Braintree, near the Monotoquot River, on a farm owned by the late Solomon Thayer, Esq. and which has been owned and occupied by their descendants to the present day.

"Old Thomas Thayer dyed 2 d. 4 mo. 1665. Margery Thayer dyed 11 d. 12 mo. 1672.—[Braintree Records.

*The following tribute of respect to the memory of a worthy character, was prepared by the Rev. Ezra Weld of Braintree, for the Massachusetts Magazine:—

13 Feb. (7) 1794, aged 73, after a sore conflict for many years, deeply depressed, in the arms of his affectionate offspring, and other condoling friends, fell asleep, the Hon. EBENEZER THAYER, some time of the council board, and for many years a Representative of the ancient town of Braintree. His person and aspect was pleasing to the eye, while a condescending affability touched the heart, and gained the esteem of a numerous acquaintance; gentle and graceful were his manners, his affection tender and flowing, naturally hospitable and generous, many tasted the fruits of his bounty. Friendly to religion and virtue, he contributed to their support with cheerfulness, and while health remained, the house of God, sacred to worship, witnessed his presence, with such as keep holy day, an example honorable in all to imitate. He lived to see and lament the vanity of worldly parade and the increasing dissipation of the present age.

He now sleeps where the weary are at rest, waiting the final summons of the last trump, when the breath of God shall reanimate his humble dust! Hush, then, the filial flowing tear, nor call him back, again the galling shafts of envy to sustain, or drink anew the bitter cup of time, or over human woes to shed more tears! Adieu, thou friendly sleeping shade, adieu!—[Alden's Coll. 3, 27.

Hon. Ebenezer Thayer, Esq. died aged 62 years 8 months and 30 days. He served the town many years as Selectman, Town Clerk and Treasurer ; was chosen their Representative — years ; was Senator of this County, (Norfolk) several years ; chosen and served as a Counsellor, and was appointed the first Sheriff of the County of Norfolk, Justice of the Peace throughout the Commonwealth, &c. All which offices he filled with integrity, and with no less usefulness to the public than honour to himself. He rose from grade to grade in the Militia, to Brigadier General. He left a fair reputation, one which even his enemies respected and envied.

His children were seven in number, four of whom survived him. He died of a general debility consequent on the stopping of a severe cough, with which he was exercised nearly twenty years. His death, though somewhat sudden, was easy ; his senses unimpaired, his mind calm and unruffled. He died like a real disciple of that pure religion, of which he for many years was a professor, 30 May, 1809.

Reveremini virtutes, et œmulamini ejus exemplum.

Huldah, wife of Ferdinando Thayer, died at Mendon, 1 Sept. 1690. Ferdinando Thayer died in Mendon, 28 March, 1713.

No. 99. I A. SARAH THAYER, a daughter of the preceding, was married to Joseph Stevens of Mendon, who died in a short time after their marriage, probably before the birth of her child which she named Tryall, born 16, 10, 1677, at Braintree.

In the church records of Braintree is the following account of her baptism :—"Tryall, daughter to widow Stevens, Ferdinando Thear's daughter of Mendon, baptized 10, 12, 1677."

"Mendon was first settled by the whites as a plantation, in 1662, and continued in that form of union until 1667, when it was invested by the General Court with town privileges, and so remained until the breaking out of Indian hostilities in 1675, when the settlement was broken up, the settlers fleeing to Braintree and Weymouth, where they staid till 1679 or 80 —there being a hiatus in the record of town meetings from May 1, 1675, to Jan. 3, 1780, after which date there is no interruption up to the present time."—[Alexander H. Allen, Town Clerk of Mendon.

No. 104. III C. JONATHAN THAYER, a son of the preceding, married Mary Wharfield of Mendon, 12 July, 1738. Probably removed to some other town, perhaps Bellingham.

There lived in Bellingham about the middle of the last century, and some years after, Dr. Jonathan Thayer, reputed to be a man of science, and of high standing in his profession. He died about 70 or 75 years ago. He left one son, whose name was Micah, who married a Howard of Mendon, and moved to Ware. He was alive and visited Mendon with his wife about 40 years since. There was one incident in the life of this Dr. Thayer, which has often been related by the aged people of Bellingham, which was believed and reported by them to be true, which was very extraordinary. In the summer season he was called to visit a patient in an urgent case, which he declined to visit, and assigned as a reason for not going, that some great misfortune was about to befal some one of his family, before he could return. However, at the repeated solicitations of the messenger he reluctantly consented to attend his professional call, but hastened with much speed to return, he immediately inquired for his absent son, and exclaimed "he is drowned," which after a long search, was found to be a fact. The boy had wandered with another boy to a deep place in Charles River, surrounded with wood, where they ventured to bathe some time, at length young Thayer sunk and rose no more.

No. 1297. VI B. REV. EBENEZER THAYER.

Sixth child of Nathaniel and Deborah Thayer, was a graduate of Harvard College, 1710, and was ordained pastor of the second church in Roxbury, 26 November, 1812. (Hist. Coll., 9, 196). He married Lydia Copeland, 4 June, 1719. His wife Sarah (probably a second wife) died at Roxbury, 8 February, 1730. Rev. Mr. Thayer died 1733.

Mr. Farmer says, "he must have been a respectable minister, as he preached the Election Sermon, 1725, which was printed." In his own hand-writing is the following memorandum, among his Church Records, March 13, 1829 or '30: "This day was set apart for supplication and prayer, on ye account of ye threatening maladies I am and have been long visited with. Mr. Webb, of Boston, began in the morning with prayer; Mr. Waller preached from Psalms xxxiv: 12; Mr. Cotton concluded. P. M., Mr. Sewall began with prayer; Mr. Foxcroft preached from Psalms cii: 24; Mr. Abbot concluded with prayer. Good Lord, give us answer of peace to the prayers of his servants and people."—Rev. George Whiting, Pastor of the same Church.

No. 1298. I A. THOMAS THAYER.

A progenitor of a numerous offspring, by some said to be a distinct race from Richard, but it is not positively known as to the facts. Both families settled in the same town (Braintree, Mass.,) about the same time, as the records show that the marriages of their children were recorded very near together; and as many intermarriages have taken place, it would make them relatives. Thomas and Margery Thayer, it appears, brought with them from England three sons:

1. Thomas.
2. Ferdinando.
3. Shadrach.

I think that must be all of his family, as in his will he mentions no other names.

COPY OF THE LAST WILL AND TESTAMENT OF THOMAS THAYER.

See Thayer No. 1298.

I, Thomas Thayer, of Braintree, in the County of Suffolk, in the Massachusetts Colony, of New England, shoe maker, being in perfect health and memory, praised be to God, this 21 of June, A. D. 1664, doe make this last Will and Testament as followeth: Imprimis I give unto my wife Margery, that now is, all my lands, goods and estate, whatsoever, situate, lying and being in Braintree, aforesaid, during the term and time of her natural life; and after her decease I give and bequeath to my sonne, Thomas Thayer, his heirs and assigns, all that my ground lying and being over the Monotoquott River, within the limits of the said town of Braintree, with the timber or other wood growing or fallen upon the same with other the appurtenances, part of which ground he has now in his possession.

Item, I give and bequeath unto Ferdinanda Thayer, my sonne, his heirs and assigns, next and immediately after the disease of Margery, my said wife, my house and orchard thereunto belonging, lying, and being in Braintree aforesaid, with all the planting ground and pasture, lying between the highway and river called Monotoquott river, aforesaid, and on the other side of the highway from the south side of the barn to the end of the lot.

Further, my will and mind is that the said Ferdinanda, my sonne, shall have the free liberty to cut, fall, and carrie away, fire wood for his and his now wife's own burning, off and from my lot, called 20 acre lott, for his and his said wife's life.

Item, I give and bequeath unto my sonne, Shadrach Thayer, his heirs and assigns, next and immediately after the disease of my said wife, Margery, a parcel of ground in Braintree, aforesaid, which shall begin at the corner of the barn next his dwelling house, and shall run with a straight line to upper end of the lot.

Item, I give and bequeath 20 acres of land more unto my sonne, his heirs and assigns, next and immediately after the disease of my said wife, Margery, which land lyeth in Braintree, aforesaid, next unto the ground of Henry Neale, provided he, his heirs, and assigns, permit and suffer my son Ferdinando, and his now wife, take wood thereof for their own burning, for their natural lives according as is before expressed.

Item, I give and bequeath all my goods and chattles unto my grand children, to be equally divided among them.

And lastly, if any of my said children shall appear to be discontented, and murmur at this my last Will and Testament, then my will and mind is that any such child, one or more of them shall have but 5 s. for their portion, and the portion or portions of any such child or children murmuring and discontented as aforesaid, shall be equally divided among the rest of my children and grand children.

And I do nominate and appoint my said wife Margery, and my son Ferdinando, to be my executors, of this my last Will and Testament; and all other former Wills and Testaments and bequeaths, I do hereby utterly revoke and make void forever by these presents. In Witness whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and seal, the day and year above written.

His mark.
THOMAS ✕ THAYER.
And seal.

Mrs. Huldah, wife of Ferdinando Thayer, died at Mendon, Mass., 1 September, 1690.

Ferdinando Thayer died at Mendon, Mass., 28 March, 1713.

NOTE.—Ferdinando Thayer, second son of Thomas and Margery Thayer, resided with his parents in Braintree, Mass., until after the death of his father, when he and others removed to a new plantation, called Nipmug, afterwards called Mendon, Worcester County, Mass. He was one of the largest proprietors of the said township; his residence or homestead was a liitle south of the present center of the town, on the Providence Road; held many offices of honor in his town and commonwealth; was a man of wealth in his day and age of the world, and his sons were all provided with farms by him, and several of his sons became extensive land dealers, and many of their descendants occupy those farms to this day, and have never changed names in title for over two hundred pears; six of his children born in Mendon, Mass., the records of which were destroyed by King Phillips war from 1666 to 1680, which is lost by that war—Preserved Smith Thayer.

Mendon was first settled by the whites as a plantation in 1662, and continued in that union until 1667, when it was invested with town privileges by the general court of the commonwealth, and so remained until the breaking out of the Indian hostilities in 1675, when the settlement was broken up, the settlers flying to Braintree and Weymouth, where they staid till 1679 or '80, to January 3d, 1680, after which date there is no interruption up to the present time.—Alexander H. Allen, Town Clerk of Mendon.

No. 1550. I C. SARAH THAYER.

First child of Ferdinando and Huldah Thayer, married to Joseph Stevens, in 1866, and died soon after. Married, probably, before the birth of her child, which she named Tryall born 16d, 10mo, 1677. In the Church Records of Braintree is the following account of her baptism:

> Tyall, daughter of widow Stevens, Ferdinando Thear's daughter, of Mendon, Mass., baptised 10d, 12mo, 1677.

No. 1551. II C. HULDAH THAYER.

Second child of Ferdinando and Huldah Thayer, married to Jacob, son of George and Catherine Aldrich, 3 November, 1675. This couple were joined in marriage by Charles Whelock, J. P., of Milford, as found recorded in that town. It will be noticed that it was consummated at the most dreary period of the terrible war between the Colonies and King Phillip, a few days previous to the burning of Mendon by the Indians, and the flight of the inhabitants therefrom. Children are:

1. Jacob, } These two were born during the period that the settlement at Mendon
2. Seth. } was burned by the Indians.

Notices in relation with the descendants of Ferdinando Thayer of Mendon which are been sended to the author of this pamphlet by Mr. Walter E. Thayer, of North Oxford, Mass.

The town of Bellingham was founded in 1719, part from Mendon and some part from what was then called Dedham.

Ebenezer Thayer was one of the original founders of Bellingham.

In the settlement of the Estate of Samuel Thayer, who married Rachel Aldrich, I found some excellent record of the children of Benjamin and Mercy (Wilkinson) Thayer.

When this Samuel died, he left his widow Rachel, and the rest of his estate went to the heirs of his brothers and sisters, in most cases their children. This shows who the children of Benjamin and Mercy were, living in 1761, when Benjamin's brother Samuel died. This also gave the names of their husbands or wives.

Your ancestor Benjamin Thayer, who married Mercy Wilkinson, was a Quaker and the Quakers buried their dead without a marked headstone during that period. There is not a single stone left in the old Quaker Burying Lot in Mendon. It is now grown up with trees and shrubs.

The old Town Cemetery in Mendon has some of the Thayer Family.

There is also and old Cemetery in Bellingham where. I have taken all the records of the names of Thayer, but none of your branch are there.

I have found my ancestor Joseph's son Joseph and all the remainder to the present time. They are buried in an old Cemetery in South Mendon but there are none of your Benjamin's folks there.

I think there is another Cemetery some where near the Bellingham-Mendon line but it is possible that it is all grown over. Also many of the people in that period were buried on their own farms.

Ferdinando Thayer left no will and I have found no papers on the division of his Estate. He gave a great deal of his property away to his sons before he died and it is said that he died actually land-poor.

Samuel Thayer (son of Ferdinando) had a great amount of lands and most of them were in South Mendon. There is a family of his descendants on land that has never been out of the family since it was settled. I have visited this place several times.

This Samuel left a very interesting Will when he died in 1721. I have a copy of his will. There was no son Oliver to Samuel. I prove this by the will of Samuel and also by the will of his son Samuel who left his property to his brothers and sisters none of whom was Oliver. I am sure that Oliver belongs elsewhere. I have never found any record where it shows Oliver as a son of Samuel except in the Bezaleel Thayer book.

I found here (Boston) in the Worcester Registry of Deeds a sale of property of Wm. Bowen in Northbridge signed by himself and Mary. I do not know where they went after sale of their lands in Northbridge, and also I am not positive that said Mary was the widow of Samuel. You may recall that I said that I had a manuscript stating that Mary, widow of Samuel (reputed mother of William Turpin Thayer and others), married a Wm. Bowen of Northbridge. He his listed in the Census of 1790 in Northbridge, but I believed he left there shortly after that date. There are no wills of Wm. Bowen in that Court, and I believe he was a man of some property so may have died elsewhere. I looked also in Boston while there but found no Wm. Bowen with wife Mary, though there was a Master Mariner died there by that name but his legatees were not familiar.

Concerning the Samuel Thayer, Captain and Master Mariner who marry Rachel Cary in Boston and died in 1796, I can not place him in any branch of the Thayer family as yet. Neither can I place the Samuel Thayer who married in Boston, Abigail Prescott Child, and she is not mentioned in the Child Genealogy and neither is Rachel Cary mentioned in the Cary Genealogy. All I know for certain is that Samuel Thayer, the Master Mariner, who married Rachel Cary had a daughter called Sukey (probably named Susannah) who married a man named Elisha Brigham. I find that this is verified in the Brigham Genealogy. The Samuel Thayer, Master Mariner, was listed in the 1790 Census in Boston and lived near a Jonathan Cary who may have been a relation to wife of said Samuel.

Samuel Thayer, son of Ferdinando, born in Mendon, Mass., 15 Feb. 1666 or 22 Jan. 1669. This two dates recorded. Married either Mary Bass or Mary Butterworth, widow of Jos. Slade.

Children are:

1.—Samuel, b. 1th Dec. 1691. Married Rachel Aldrich. No children.

2.—Sarah, b. 11 Feb. 1695. Married David Hill, 17 Dec. 1716.

3.—Huldah, b. 30 Nov. 1698. Married William White and died after giving birth to one son. She died 26 Aug. 1720 and William White, married Elizabeth Thayer a daughter of Thomas.

4.—Mary, b. 11 Feb. 1701. Married Benjamin White, 23 May. 1720. Had a family of children.

5.—Joseph, b. July 1707. Married for his 2nd wife 30 Aug. 1726, Hannah Hayward. Had:
  a) Joseph, b. 3 Dec. 1727.
  b) Samuel, b. 24 Jan. 1729-30 may have died.
  c) Samuel, b. 20 Feb. 1731-2.

6.—Benjamin, b. 11 Sept. 1709. Married Mercy Wilkinson.

Benjamin Thayer, known as Doctor Benjamin Thayer. Married Mercy Wilkinson, daughter of Samuel and Huldah (Aldrich) Wilkinson. Married 23 Aug. 1727. Benjamin Thayer settled in Mendon and in 1732 was one of the 10 persons exempted from paying a ministerial tax there for the reason that is was a member of the Society of Friends or quakers. Mrs. Mercy died at the age of 90 yrs. Children are:

1.—Patience, b. 3 Jan. 1729. Married, 1 h May 1747 to John Legg, Jr. She was living in 1761 and received inheritance from her uncle Samuel, who married Rachel Aldrich.

2.—Huldah, b. 5 Nov. 1730. Married Thomas Thayer (Thomas, Thomas, Ferdinando), She also received inheritance from her uncle Samuel and was named as Huldah wife of Thomas Thayer in said inheritance, so they were married sometime before 1761.

3,—Gideon, b. 22 Jan. 1733. Died at Sea, December 1752.

4.—Samuel, b. 5 Dec. 1734. Married Mary Turpin of Providence R. I. (Mendon, Mass. Records). Children: Ferdinando, born 14 Jan. 1764. Bill Turpin, born 1777. I think this might be 1771 but the printed Mendon Records have recorded as 1777. Also says Bill Turpin Thayer was born to Samuel 3rd and Mary. This is correct as I find in the inheritance which Samuel was left by his uncle Samuel he was known as Samuel 3rd, and Samuel, brother of Joseph was known as Samuel 4th. They are both mentioned in this manner in the distribution of the property of Samuel who married Rachel Aldrich.

5.—Benjamin, b. 7 Oct. 1738. Died 7 July 1740.

6.—Silence, b. 25 May 1740. Married Abner Thayer. Also mentioned in distribution of uncle Samuel property as wife of Abner.

The Thayer Genealogy has no Silence but I have proved this by the original Mendon Records, Silence was living in 1761.

Bezaleel Thayer Genealogy is all wrong on this Silence who he has Patience 2nd, incorretly. There was no daughter of Benjamin who married Abraham Thayer.

7.—Hope, b. 1th Aug. 1742. Married Nathan Aldrich, 23 Aug. 1761 and is also left an inheritance by her uncle Samuel.

8.—Mercy b. 1th. Aug. 1742. Mentioned in estate of Samuel her uncle as Mercy Thayer Jr. I believe that she married in 1761, but have not been able to prove whether she married Reuben Aldrich or a man named Smith.

In addition to the children of Benjamin and Mercy Wilkinson Thayer, I believe they had a daughter named Rachel Thayer who married Noah Aldrich, 15 Dec. 1753. She is also left inheritance by her uncle Samuel.

The will of Lieut. Samuel Thayer, who died in 1721, father of Benjamin who married Mercy Wilkinson, left the following to Benjamin. Left him the whole of the homestead with buildings thereon, that he take care of his mother as long as she shall dwell with him, and if she chooses to depart from him, he is to pay his mother ten pounds annually. If she marries again, Benjamin to pay her six pounds for the rest of her life. When Benjamin comes of age he is to have 1/2 of the farm tools and one feather bed and the furniture for same.

At the time this will was probated Benjamin would be about 11 years old.

William Turpin Thayer is mentioned in Mendon Records as follows: William Turpin Thayer filed intentions to marry Polly Benson. Int. Jan 10-1792.

It is evident that the family may have left Mendon about that time. In an old manuscript I have it that Mary Thayer, widow of Samuel (and mother of William Turpin), married a William Bowen of Northbridge in 1792. I do not know if this is true.

There was a Capt. Samuel Thayer, mariner, who married Rachel Cary in Boston, April 16, 1789. He died in Boston in 1796. There was a daughter of his name Sukey who married Elisha Brigham. She was born about 1782, and Andrew Sigourney was her guardian, date Nov. 27, 1808, even though she was as that time married to Brigham. I have no record of this Samuel Thayer and do not know whether connected to your branch or not. Probably not but I am noting here for your notation.

To the hon. Thos. Dawes, Judge of Boston. It being inconvenient for me to administer on Estate of Ann Thayer, late of Boston, widow deceased intestate. I hereby signify the same to your honor and request that Mr. John Tucker of Sd. Boston, Merchant may be appointed to that trust (signed) Ann Brown— July 26, 1819. John Tucker appointed administrator. I have found very interesting information concerning administration of estate of Samuel (2196)^{4}, Samuel^{3}, Ferdinando^{2}, Thomas,^{1} wherein he left his property to his widow Rachel and there being no children he left the remainder to the children of his brothers and sisters namely:

Samuel Thayer (2312), the 3rd.
Huldah Thayer (2311-2) wife of Thomas.
Joseph Thayer (2249).
Hopestill Aldrich (2314) wife of Nathan Aldrich.
Mercy Thayer (2315) Junior.
Benjamin White (2199 1).
Rachel Aldrich, wife of Noah Aldrich.
Patience Legg (2311-1) wife of John Legg.
John Hill (son of 2197).
Huldah Aldrich (2311-2 wife of Samuel Aldrich.
Isaac Hill (son of 2197).
Silence Thayer (2311-6) wife of Abner Thayer.
Samuel Thayer (2249-4) the 4th.
Mary Aldrich (dau. of 2197) wife of John Aldrich.

The administration of the estate of Samuel Thayer (2196) made 1760, Inventory taken June 1761.

This administration is very interesting information as it shows the living cousins at that time (1760-1761) and shows the errors in the Thayer Genealogy by Bezaleel Thayer.

The inventory of this estate was made in 1761 and

I am writing you as I wish to show my solution of the above cousins:

—Rachel Thayer, the widow, was Rachel Aldrich before her marriage.

—Samuel Thayer (2249-4) the 4th. was brother of Joseph, my ancestor, who was a son of Lieut Samuel Thayer.

—Huldah Thayer, wife of Thomas Thayer, was a daughter of Benjamin^{4}, Samuel^{3}, Ferdinando^{2}, Thomas^{1}.

—Joseph Thayer, was a son of Lieut Samuel^{3}, Ferdinando^{2}.

—Hopestill Aldrich, was a daughter of Benjamin Thayer^{4}, Samuel^{3}, Ferdinando^{2}.

—Mercy Thayer was a daughter of Benjamin^{4} and Mercy Wilkinson Thayer.

—Benjamin White was either the husband or son of Mary Thayer, the daughter of Lieut Samuel^{3}.

—Rachel Aldrich wife of Noah, I have not definitely established.

—Patience Legg was the daughter of Benjamin^{4}, Samuel^{3}.

—John Hill was the son of Sara^{4} Hill, Lieut Samuel Thayer^{3}.

—Huldah Aldrich wife of Samuel Aldrich, was also the daughter of Sarah^{4} Hill.

—Isaac Hill, was also a son of Sarah^{4} Hill.

—Silence Thayer, wife of Abner Thayer, was a daughter of Benjamin^{4}, Lieut Samuel Thayer^{3}

—Samuel Thayer (2312)) the 3rd was a son of Benjamin (2311), son of Lieut Samuel.

—Mary Aldrich, wife of John, was also a daughter of Sarah^{4} Hill, Lieut Samuel Thayer^{3}.

Notes and corrections referring to using numbers in book by Bezaleel Thayer 1549. Ferdinando Thayer. I believe this be substantially correct with this additions:

6.—Thomas, born Feb. 14, 1664 I believe.

7.—Samuel, born Feb. 15, 1666 ,, ,,

5.—Naomi married John Cook son of Walter, April 16, 1684.

1550.—Sarah Thayer, substantially correct.

1551.—Huldah Thayer, ,, ,,

1552.—Jonathan Thayer. My record shows married July 13, 1680. He died in 1690. Children substantially correct except Elizabeth, (child 6) does not belong. The Elizabeth here mentioned by Bez. Thayer is N o 2112, wich I have proved as correct.

1553.—Probably correct

1554 — ,, ,,

1552.—Had also a son Joshua by wife Bethiah. The son Joshua was a soldier and I find he died 1757.
This is concerning the son Joshua not mentioned. Joshua died without children and also probably unmarried. Jonathan did not marry the third time to Rachel as stated. He died about 1753 leaving wife Bethiah.

The part writen as third marriage of Jonathan is that of his son Jonathan (N.º 1558) the wife was Rachel. It is probably that wife listed in 1558 may have been second wife of Jonathan Jr.

1557.—Grace. Incorrect concerning James Wood. He married the Grace who was daughter Benjamin (N.º 3955). Grace daughter of Jonathan married a Holbrook before 1753.

1558.—This may have been a second marriage of Jonathan Jr. My record shows the children given to the father Jonathan by the third marriage belong to this Jonathan Jr. as the father was survived by wife Bethiah.

1560.—Seth married Judith Bullard not Thayer.

1559.—Patience Thayer. Jonathan had no daughter named Patience living in 1752 and the Patience who married John Legg was N.o 2312.

1555.—Also had a son Joshua who died 1756-1757. Mentioned in will of father, as being at camp at lake George. Brother appointed admns. 24 Jan. 1757.

1745.—Mary Thayer married James Albee Jan. 3, 1708. Proved by fathers will. Incorrect as recorded by Thayer Genealogy.

1746.—Priscilla Thayer married Moses Taft, Sept 3, 1735 (Fathers will). Elizabeth Thayer was married to a man named Taft at death of her father in 1761.

1832.—Thomas Thayer married Huldah Thayer daughter of Benjamin (2311). Proved by adms. of Estate of Huldah's father's brother who was Samuel (2196).

1854.—Oliver Thayer married Hannah Cock in 1753 year. His widow married Elisha Thompson. There were two Thayer children: Mehetable who married Silas Aldrich and a son Joseph. Proven by guardianships papers. Children listed by Thayer Genealogy cannot be to 1854.

1979.—Samuel Thayer married Mary Sampson of Duxbury May 13, 1716. First child Abigail born Aug. 22, 1718 and not as recorded. Thayer Genealogy has him married to (2062 4) who was not born until 1735, and if ever born was not mentioned in her fathers will.

Zilpha (3) was married to a man named Holbrook at time of death of her father in 1764. Thankful (5) was also married to a man named Holbrook on or before 1764 (2029). Susannah (8) unmarried, at time her father made his will, called Susanah Thayer. Mary (9), unmarried, at time her father made his will, called Mary Thayer. Samuel (1979). Had also grand daughters Olive Farnum and Fern. Thayer. Olive was probably daughter of 2031. But find no record of a Fern. as being a daughter of Stephen (?).

2062.—I can not prove he was married to 4055 (5) David Thayer. Will made out Oct. 8, 1750. Names wife Hannah; David, son a minor; Elijah; daughters Rebeckah Thayer, Hannah Thayer, and Dinah and Elizabeth both under 18 yrs. No mention of any daughters Mary (2064) or Susannah (2065). I think they belong to children of 3517.

2077.—Diana is 2290 I am not certain which marriage date is corret.

2156.—Silence Thayer was daughter of Benjamin (2311) and married Abner Thayer of Providence.

2195.—Can't prove that he married Mary Bass. She might have been Mary Butterworth widow of Jos. Slade. Uncertain which. I have copy his will. He died 1721. I am convinced that Oliver Thayer 2195 (5) does not belong in here. No mention in fathers will nor in distribution of property of brother (2196).

2198.—Huldah died early after marriage and her husband almost inmediately married 2112. Proven.

2200.—Line all is wrong as Oliver belongs elsewhere unless absolutely disowned by all relations. Did not participate in any estate of alleged relations. I have not yet found where he belongs either.

2249.—Joseph married Hannah Hayward as second wife, according to his will. Hannah (1) if a child of Joseph was dead before 1734. Proven.

2250.—Hannah was not daughter of Joseph but was widow of Oliver 1854. She was nee Cook. Proven.

2253.—(3) Phile should read Phebe.

2255.—Reuben married Deborah Keach and not Keith. (1) An infant should read Hiram F.

2256.—Joseph married Hopestill White and not Hopsbill. No children.

2289.—Judith married James Harkness not Hawkins.

2306.—Samuel. Note errors and contradiction with 2312.

2311.—Should be Silence (6) instead of Patience. Patience (2311-1) was living and married to John Legg Jr. in 1747.

2312.—Samuel Thayer married Mary Turpin and not Mary Thayer. Children uncertain. May have settled in Bellingham but Bill Terpin (William Turpin) born in Mendon. Mendon Vital Records as 1777, probably 1771 due to similarity of 7 to 1.

2315.—Question whether she married a Taft or a Smith. Not yet proven. Unmarried in early 1761.

2316.—Isaac had in addition to the children named Jerusha who married Benjamin Corary; Samuel of Mendon; Joseph, of Douglas, Mass., and Patience who married Benjamin Childs. Proven in will of 2316. Isaac Thayer died about 1755. I have copy of his will.

I do not know who the above Samuel Thayer married but may find out sometime as it would help in my attempt to allocate the Samuels.

2316.—Children of Isaac Thayer mentioned in his will.

1.—Mercy, married David Thompson. She was dead before her father 1755.

2.—Isaac, married Miriam Thayer daughter of Josiah.

3.—Ebenezer märried Mary Wheelock.
4.—Comfort, married James Keith.
5.—Mary, married Gersham Keith, of Uxbridge.
6.—John, married possibly Abigail Darling. Had a son Jesse who was living at death of Isaac and willed legacy.
7.—Nathaniel, married Anna Partridge.
8.—Moses, married widow of his cousin Joseph Thayer, who was nee Hannah Hayward.
9.—Samuel, not established by me, as to who married.
10.—Joseph, married Sarah Balcom.
11.—Ichabod, married Mrs. Hannah Cheney formely Bigelow of Weston.
12.—Jerusha, married Benjamin Corary.
13.—Patience who married Benjamin Childs of Woodstock, Conn.

Ancestor Roll Of Honor

THOMAS THAYER
BRAINTREE, MA
(c1596-1665)

Thomas THAYER, son of Richard THAYER, was christened 16 Aug 1596 at Thornbury, Gloucestershire, England. Thomas died 2 June 1665 in Braintree, MA. He married Margery WHEELER 13 April 1618 at Thornbury, England. She was born 25 April 1600 at Thornbury, England, the daughter of Abel WHEELER and Jane SHEPHARD. Margery died 13 Feb 1672/73 in Braintree, MA.

The immigrant Thomas THAYER is the progenitor of the largest of the three branches of the THAYER Family of America. Well over 20,000 of his descendants are followed in my publication entitled A Comprehensive Genealogy of the Thayer Family of America. Thomas THAYER first appears in the records in America on 24 Feb 1639/40 when he was granted land at Mt. Wollaston (now Braintree) MA for his family of 9 heads for "40 acres more, there being in all 76 acres upon the same covenant of the three shillings per acre."

There has been much speculation concerning the exact year of immigration for Thomas THAYER. Some say as early as 1630, others as late as 1645--which was most certainly too late. In 1994, Raymond Alexander ("Rick") THAYER, TFA secretary, called the New England Historic Genealogical Society to ask about a list of possible ships which may have transported the THAYER immigrants to the Colonies. He spoke with Dave Dearborn, who was referred as an expert on the subject and was surprised to learn that the only entry ever given and available there was the name of the Captain of the ship John DRIVER, which brought Thomas to the Port of Boston, having left Weymouth, England in 1637. Evidently this was in reference to the goods which Thomas shipped from the Port of Weymouth on 22 April 1637 on the ship Speedwell. It is my understanding that the "names of the passengers were not recorded unless they also happened to be exporting dutiable goods, though some exceptions are to be found to this practice."(Genealogical Gleanings in England Passenger and Ships to America 1618-1668, by Peter Wilson Coldham.)

When Rick called NEHGS once again in 1995, he spoke with Mr. Dearborn's Assistant, Jerry Anderson, and was informed that there, were two recorded sailing vessels in the period between 1607 and 1670 with the THAYER name; one, the "Blessing" captained by John DEVINE, which evidently brought Thomas to Boston Harbor on 8 April 1637*(The Complete Book of Immigrants, Volume I, 1607-1670, by Peter Wilson Coldham);* the other was the "Speedwell" which followed shortly thereafter and carried Thomas' goods.

Thomas THAYER was a shoemaker, as can be seen by his will, dated 21 June 1664. This has been published in full in the 1835 THAYER Memorial by Dr. Elisha THAYER and elsewhere. Birth; Church

[See page 344.]

THAYER NAME, FROM THE MASSACHUSETTS COLONY OF WEYMOUTH AND BRAINTREE, EMBRACING GENEOLOGICAL AND BIOGRAPHICAL SKETCHES OF

family

AND THEIR DESCENDANTS, FROM 1636 TO 1874.

BY BEZALEEL THAYER,

Look unto Abraham your father, and unto Sarah that bare you; for I called him alone, and blessed him and increased him. Isaiah 51:2.

OSWEGO:
R. J. OLIPHANT, STEAM BOOK AND JOB PRINTER, 1874.

No. 1297. VI B. REV. EBENEZER THAYER.

Sixth child of Nathaniel and Deborah Thayer, was a graduate of Harvard College, 1710, and was ordained pastor of the second church in Roxbury, 26 November, 1812. (Hist. Coll., 9, 196). He married Lydia Copeland, 4 June, 1719. His wife Sarah (probably a second wife) died at Roxbury, 8 February, 1730. Rev. Mr. Thayer died 1733.

Mr. Farmer says, "he must have been a respectable minister, as he preached the Election Sermon, 1725, which was printed." In his own hand-writing is the following memorandum, among his Church Records, March 13, 1829 or '30:. "This day was set apart for supplication and prayer, on ye account of ye threatening maladies I am and have been long visited with. Mr. Webb, of Boston, began in the morning with prayer;
Mr. Waller preached from Psalms xxxiv: 12; Mr. Cotton concluded. P. M., Mr.
Sewall began with prayer; Mr. Foxcroft preached from Psalms cii: 24; Mr. Abbot concluded with prayer. Good Lord, give us answer of peace to the prayers of his servants and people."—Rev. George Whiting, Pastor of the same Church.

No. 1298. I A. THOMAS THAYER.

A progenitor of a numerous offspring, by some said to be a distinct race from Richard, but it is not positively known as to the facts. Both families settled in the same town (Braintree, Mass.,) about the same time, as the records show that the marriages of their children were recorded very near together; and as many intermarriages have taken place, it would make them relatives. Thomas and Margery Thayer, it appears, brought with them from England three sons:

1. Thomas.
2. Ferdinando.
3. Shadrach.

I think that must be all of his family, as in his will he mentions no other names.

COPY OF THE LAST WILL AND TESTAMENT OF THOMAS THAYER.

See Thayer No. 1298.

I, Thomas Thayer, of Braintree, in the County of Suffolk, in the Massachusetts Colony, of New England, shoe maker, being in perfect health and memory, praised be to God, this 21 of June, A. D. 1664, doe make this last Will and Testament as fol-loweth: Imprimis I give unto my wife Margery, that now is, all my lands, goods and estate, whatsoever, situate, lying and being in Braintree, aforesaid, during the term and time of her natural life; and after her decease I give and bequeath to my sonne, Thomas
Thayer, his heirs and assigns, all that my ground lying and being over the Monotoquott River, within the limits of the said town of Braintree, with the timber or other wood growing or fallen upon the same with other the appurtenances, part of which ground he has now in his possession.

Item, I give and bequeath unto Ferdinanda Thayer, my sonne, his heirs and assigns, next and immediately after the disease of Margery, my said wife, my house and orchard thereunto belonging, lying, and being in Braintree aforesaid, with all the planting ground and pasture, lying between the highway and river called Monotoquott river, aforesaid, and on the other side of the highway from the south side of the barn to the end of the lot.

Further, my will and mind is that the said Ferdinanda, my sonne, shall have the free liberty to cut, fall, and carrie away, fire wood for his and his now wife's own burning, off and from my lot, called 20 acre lott, for his and his said wife's life.

Item, I give and bequeath unto my sonne, Shadrach Thayer, his heirs and assigns, next and immediately after the disease of my said wife, Margery, a parcel of ground in Braintree, aforesaid, which shall begin at the corner of the barn next his dwelling house, and shall run with a straight line to upper end of the lot.

Item, I give and bequeath 20 acres of land more unto my sonne, his heirs and assigns, next and immediately after the disease of my said wife, Margery, which land lyeth in Braintree, aforesaid, next unto the ground of Henry Neale, provided he, his heirs, and assigns, permit and suffer my son Ferdinando, and his now wife, take wood thereof for their own burning, for their natural lives according as is before expressed.

Item, I give and bequeath all my goods and chattles unto my grand children, to be equally divided among them.

And lastly, if any of my said children shall appear to be discontented, and murmur at this my last Will and Testament, then my will and mind is that any such child, one or more of them shall have but 5 s. for their portion, and the portion or portions of any such child or children murmuring and discontented as aforesaid, shall be equally divided among the rest of my children and grand children.

And I do nominate and appoint my said wife Margery, and my son Ferdinando, to be my executors, of this my last Will and Testament; and all other former Wills and Testaments and bequeaths, I do hereby utterly revoke and make void forever by these presents. In Witness whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and seal, the day and year above written.

His mark.
THOMAS ✕ THAYER.
And seal.

Read, sealed and published in presence of us:

The mark of Shadrach.
The mark of R. B.
MARGERY FLINT.
SARAH SAVILLE.
RUTH BASSE.

At a meeting of the Magistrates and Recorder in Boston, 13 September, 1665, Sarah Saville and Ruth Basse, deposed before the Magistrates and Recorder that having subscribed their names to the instrument, were present on the date thereof, and did both see and hear the above mentioned Thomas Thayer, to sign, seal and publish the same to be his last Will and Testament, that when he so did he was of a sound and disposing mind to your best knowledge.

EDWIN RAWSON, Recorder.

Suffolk Probate Office, Vol. 1, Page 458.

NOTE.—Jaconias Thayer, son of James and Deborah Thayer, James, son of Ephraim and Sarah, Ephraim, son of Shadrach and Mary, Shadrach, son of Thomas and Margery Thayer the first, settled on lands in Braintree, Mass. Was a freeman in 1636, on the lands I now own, and the title has never changed from the Thayer name to the present day, 12 June, 1872, except from one family to the other in a true line of descent.

Mrs. Huldah, wife of Ferdinando Thayer, died at Mendon, Mass., 1 September, 1690.

Ferdinando Thayer died at Mendon, Mass., 28 March, 1713.

NOTE.—Ferdinando Thayer, second son of Thomas and Margery Thayer, resided with his parents in Braintree, Mass., until after the death of his father, when he and others removed to a new plantation, called Nipmug, afterwards called Mendon, Worcester County, Mass. He was one of the largest proprietors of the said township ; his residence or homestead was a liitle south of the present center of the town, on the Providence Road ; held many offices of honor in his town and commonwealth ; was a man of wealth in his day and age of the world, and his sons were all provided with farms by him, and several of his sons became extensive land dealers, and many of their descendants occupy those farms to this day, and have never changed names in title for over two hundred pears ; six of his children born in Mendon, Mass., the records of which were destroyed by King Phillips war from 1666 to 1680, which is lost by that war—Preserved Smith Thayer.

Mendon was first settled by the whites as a plantation in 1662, and continued in that union until 1667, when it was invested with town privileges by the general court of the commonwealth, and so remained until the breaking out of the Indian hostilities in 1675, when the settlement was broken up, the settlers flying to Braintree and Weymouth, where they staid till 1679 or '80, to January 3d, 1680, after which date there is no interruption up to the present time.—Alexander H. Allen, Town Clerk of Mendon.

No. 1550. I C. SARAH THAYER.

First child of Ferdinando and Huldah Thayer, married to Joseph Stevens, in 1866, and died soon after. Married, probably, before the birth of her child, which she named Tryall born 16d, 10mo, 1677. In the Church Records of Braintree is the following account of her baptism:

> Tyall, daughter of widow Stevens, Ferdinando Thear's daughter, of Mendon, Mass., baptised 10d, 12mo, 1677.

brother, not direct

Richard1 Thayer was baptized Apr.5,1601 at St. Mary's Church, Thornbury, Gloucestershire, England, perhaps a son of Richard Thayer, but only the names of his god parents are given on the register, - Richard Dimery, Nicholas Tayer, and Elizabeth Griffing.

He married 1st Apr.5,1624 at Thornbury Dorothy Mortimore, who was buried there Jan.17,1640/1, a daughter of William Mortimore whose second wife Margaret Groome survived him.

Immediately after the death of his wife Richard Thayer with his eight small children embarked for America and came to Braintree where Thomas Thayer, undoubtedly his brother was established. Here he bought 4 acres of land on present Elm St. Braintree, about 1/3 mile easterly of Thomas Thayer's homestead, and his son Richard settled here permanently.

About July 1646 Richard Thayer Sr. married at Boston Jane, widow of John Parker of Boston, who came from Marlboro, England. In Oct.1656 Jane "the now wife of Richard Tare, late of Boston, heretofore the widow of John Parker late of Boston, deceased, with Thomas Parker her son, and children John and Noah for their education ... sell to Stephen Greenleaf of Newbury, blacksmith, her house and land at Boston and 42 acres at Muddy River (Brookline)... with the consent of her children for their and her own transportation into England, dated Oct.14,1656 (S.D. 3-148). Mrs. Jane (Kember) Parker Thayer probably died in England before 1660. John Parker m. Jane Kember Sep.29,1628, Marlboro, England. (See American Genealogist, Vol.18, p.114).

Richard1 Thayer married 3rd, probably in England, before 1660, Katherine - who survived him and died between Feb.1, and Apr.5,1687 in the town and parish of St. Michael's, Barbados. Richard1 Thayer died at the same place in Barbados in Oct.1664, leaving a will dated Oct.6, proved Oct.12,1664, giving his estate to his wife Katherine for life, then to be divided among his surviving children (not named). The widow Katherine Thayer left a will dated Feb.1, proved Apr.5,1687 only disposes of a negro slave named Dorcio. Both wills are disappointing genealogically, but Suffolk Court records (# 424,455,828, paper 29) show that Richard Thayer was in Barbados as early as Mar.12,1660 as were his sons Richard and Nathaniel, and he also mentions his daughter Dorothy and his wife Katherine and Samuel (Samuel Davis, his son in law). He was a merchant there apparently engaged in shipping rum, cotton, and sugar to New England as mentioned in his account (published in "Ancestors and Descendants of Peter Parker and Sarah Ruggles of Roxbury by J.W. Lingee, pp.529-57).

There was also a John Thayer at Barbados who left a will dated Aug.29,1661, proved Jun.22,1665. He mentions various people, but the only relative mentioned is his sister Elinor Lemon. There are several baptisms of John and Elinor Thayer's at Thornbury, England, the home of Richard1 Thayer and Thomas1 Thayer.

Richard1 Thayer was made a freeman of Mass. Bay Colony 1641, so was evidently a church member here.

Hester	bapt. Nov.24,1636, m. (after 1676) Joseph Gray of Taunton, as 2nd wife. She died 1724 at Norton.
Nathaniel	bapt. Apr.11,1639, m. (before Aug.1669) at Boston, Deborah Townsend, bapt. Aug.23,1650 at Boston, dau. of William & Hannah (Penn) Townsend. He died 1693 at Boston, leaving five children, whose descendants resided in Boston. He was in Barbados in 1660 with his father.
Cornelius	bapt. Dec.10,1640, died single, about June 1663 at Weymouth, administration of his estate given to brothers Zachariah & Richard, "in behalf of themselves and the rest of his brethren and sisters."

Hester Thayer did not marry Edward Hall of Braintree and Taunton as sometimes claimed (over) (See Suffolk Deeds 35-15.

I do not believe Hester Thayer bapt. Nov.24,1636 married in 1650 at age 13 Edward Hall. Edward Hall and wife Esther or Hester had a son, born Jan.23,1650(1) when Hester Thayer was just over 14 years old.
Hester Thayer in 1695 was wife of Joseph Gray of Taunton whom she married after 1676 when his first wife died. Edward Hall died in 1670 at Rehoboth.

Thayer 4620

Richard2 (Richard1) Thayer

baptized Feb.10,1624/5 at St. Mary's Church, Thornbury, Gloucestershire, England.
died - "Richard Thayer Sr. died Aug.27,1695 aged 71 years," says his gravestone, Hancock Cem., Quincy.
married Dec.24,1651 at Braintree, Dorothy Pray, born about 1634, died Dec.11,1705, dau. of Quinton Pray, an iron worker, who resided near the Thayer homestead on Elm. St., Braintree.

No settlement of his estate is recorded, but he was an extensive land speculator and from his claims and rebuttals we know much about him. He was one of the eight children who came over with his father early in 1641; in 1648 he purchased his father's homestead in Braintree and added to it in 1661, 1663, 1667 and in 1668 mortgaged his lands and became involved in a law suit because his title was not clear to some of them and was in turn forced to sue for some of the Iron Works land that had been sold to him without clear title. He became involved in other land deals, having leased in 1657 a large tract of land at present Canton from Capt. Roger Clapp, and in 1692 sued Clapp's heirs but lost the case.

About 1680 he returned to England and made claims for land which so alarmed the Braintree inhabitants that they sent a petition to the throne in England in rebuttal (Mass. Archives 3-34 & 1-87). In 1685 he again laid claim to large tracts of the Iron Works land. He only succeeded however in obtaining the remaining estate of Increase Robinson of Taunton, the administrator of the estate of John Payne of Boston who had sold him by defective title a small piece of land belonging to the creditors of the Iron Works Co. in Braintree. He also became in litigation from - a contract for building a vessel at Braintree in 1688 (Suffolk Court Rec. #1342 & #947).
In 1658 he was fined by the General Court for selling liquor contrary to law (Mass. Colony Rec. Vol.4, p.1?). During the litigation and afterwards he occupied the lands he had mortgaged to Simon Lynde, as a tenant and in the settlement of Lynde's estate in 1689 his son Benjamin Lynde received lands and estate at Braintree in the occupation of Richard Thayer. Richard Thayer or his heirs eventually recovered some or all of these lands, probably by repayment of the mortgage. His well preserved gravestone would indicate he had some estate at his decease, though none is of record.

(See Pattee's History of Quincy pp. 40-54 for details of some of the lawsuits, also Suffolk Court Rec. #1885,2053,2508, also Suffolk Deeds 5-446, 7-236, 11-309, 16-42, Bristol Deeds 1-224, 6-307, etc.)

He also was in Barbados in 1660 with his father, and probably stayed there some time as no children are of record between 1658 and 1670.

married Jul.16,1679, Rebecca Mycall, born Jan.20,1659, died Jan.28,1732 aged 73 years 8 days, says her gravestone, Elm St. Cem., dau. of James & Mary (Farr) Mycall.

Rebecca the widow, and Benjamin the son were administrators of his estate Jan.3,1705(6) and her account filed Apr.4,1713 as the surviving administrator includes "a debt paid to Benjamin Lynde œ38 cash paid to Samuel Lynde œ5/6/6-", which may represent the clearing of the mortgage that had involved his father in such protracted litigation. The estate was settled upon John Thayer the second surviving son, as Richard the oldest surviving son declined it, and he paid off the other heirs, to widow Margaret Thayer in behalf of her children, Margaret, Benjamin, & Zebulon, a double portion, Richard Thayer, Rebecca Bolter, Mary, Deborah, Anna and Obadiah Thayer, or their guardians, his mother to have her dower.

The account also mentions money paid for the funeral of the deceased and his two sons (Gideon and James).

He was elected fenceviewer 1698, tithingman 1701, constable 1703. He was a soldier in 1675 in the Indian War (Register Vol.8)

Rebecca wife of Richard Thayer was admitted to full communion Mar.21,1697 and had children baptized, Rebecca, Benjamin, John, James, Mary, & Deborah Apr.11,1697, Anna Nov.14,1697, Gideon Jul.28,1700, Obadiah May 2,1703.

Nathaniel3 (Richard2-1) born Jan.1,1657/8 died Mar.28,1728 in 70th yr., gs. Elm St. Cem.

married May 27,1679, Hannah Hayden, born Jan.3,1660(1), died "widow Thayer, the aged" buried Sep.29,1743 (Ch.Rec), dau. of John & Hannah (Ames) Hayden.

Resided on his father's estate, but owned much land in the "Purchase Lands" now Randolph & Holbrook.
Hannah Thayer, widow, was made administrator of Nathaniel Thayer, housewright, and was bonded with Ephraim Thayer, weaver, and Richard Thayer, blacksmith, Apr.22,1729. The estate contained among other things "two houses about a mile and a half, one from the other, with about 20 acres to each house or 24 a. at most, and as it will be a damage to divide either of them they were settled on two sons Zachariah and Hezekiah. Son Richard Thayer "removeth to my youngest brother Hezekiah Thayer my right of settlement in my father Nathaniel Thayer's estate", Aug.25,1729. "Nathaniel Thayer, eldest son and Joseph Tower who married one of ye daughters of said Nathaniel Thayer, deceased" Mar.28,1728, leaving eleven children", complain the widow Hannah has not rendered a full inventory or account. The son Hezekiah quit claimed his share to the estate to his brother Nathaniel Oct.13,1729 and the real estate was finally settled upon Nathaniel & Zachariah, two sons, they to pay their brothers and sisters Richard Thayer, Hannah Whiting (sic, in records, should be Vinton), Ruth Tower, Daniel Thayer, Dorothy Ludden, Hezekiah Thayer, Lydia Hayden, Deborah Thayer, and Esther Thayer, Nov.3,1729. Nathaniel Littlefield and wife Deborah signed a receipt for their part, Aug.7,1731. He was elected constable 1707, hogreave 1719.

Zachariah, Dorothy and Lydia were baptized as adults Feb.20,1715, and Nathaniel bapt. Feb.21,1720.

Cornelius3 (Richard2-1) born Nov.18,1670 died - buried May 31,1738 (Ch.Rec).

married about 1692, Abigail Hayden, born about 1671, died "Abigail wife of Cornelius Thayer, died Jan.1,1730/3 in her 59th year, mother of 13 sons and 3 daughters, 4 died under 1 year of age, rest grown to men and women" reads her gravestone, Elm St. Cem., Braintree.

She was daughter of John & Hannah (Ames) Hayden and sister of his brother Nathaniel's wife.
He was elected surveyor of highways 1706,1718,19, field driver 1711, constable 1716 but excused from it, selectman 1722.
He left a will dated Aug.2,1728, calls himself a yeoman, "being very sick and weak", proved Jun.6,1738, gives his wife Abigail and two youngest sons Eleazer and Jeremiah his homestead and 2/3 of a wood lot adjoining Moore's Farm between said farm and the lot I gave sons David & Ezekiel, they paying to son Eliakim œ5. Son Jeremiah to have learning instead if he wants it. To son Cornelius remainder of the lot on which his house stands, he paying my daughter Jemima Spear œ15. To son David & Ezekiel who have built together the lot where their house stands, they paying Jemima œ5. To son Richard the 20th lot in the River Division in Cochato. To son Gideon 1/2 acre of cedar swamp, and to Christian, daughter of my son Moses, deceased, equally 10 acres in the 8th lot in the upper division in Cochato, being in partnership with Josiah Faxon, Daniel Thayer and heirs of my brother Nathaniel Thayer. To son Eliakim 5th lot in the 13th draught.

Wife Abigail and son Eleazer executors. Gideon Thayer became administrator of the part of the estate not disposed of by will and his account dated Feb.6,1738(9) (which was chiefly son Richard's inheritance) says the real estate was -

- given to him as Cornelius Thayer, eldest son quit claimed it, and Ezekiel Thayer, second son refuses it, and he is to pay his brothers and sister, Ezekiel, Eliakim, Eleazer, Jeremiah, David, Moses, and Jemima Spear.

Zachariah^{4} (Nathaniel^{3}Richard$^{2-1}$) born Mar.15,1696/7 buried Feb.8,1755 (Ch.Rec).

married 1st Feb.4,1717/8, Elizabeth Curtis, born Apr.5,1695, died Nov.12,1733, dau. of Theophilus & Hannah (Payne) Curtis.
married 2nd May 28,1735 at Boston, Abigail Seeley of Boston, born Aug.23,1703 at Boston, died May 4,1790 at Williamsburgh, dau. of John & Sarah (Gary) Seeley or Seily.

He resided on his father's estate on Elm St., Braintree which he inherited.
He left a will dated Oct.10,1754, proved Mar.21,1755 giving to wife Abigail improvement of the homestead until youngest daughter is 18 years of age. To son Zachariah the lot where his barn stands. To daughter Elizabeth Hollis, daughter Amy Thayer a room in the house while single. To daughter Ruhamah Thayer. To daughter Abigail Thayer, to daughter Silence, to daughter Bethiah. To three sons Joshua, Abel, & Enoch the homestead equally divided 1/3 when youngest sister is 18 and 1/3 at their mother's decease. Wife Abigail executor. About 1771 the widow Abigail and all her children except perhaps Abigail Curtis removed to Williamsburgh. On May 1,1759 the widow Abigail & daughter Bethiah were warned out of Boston where they had resided for 11 months, coming from Braintree.

He was elected surveyor of highways 1732, and constable 1735 but was excused from serving.

Cornelius4 (Cornelius3Richard2-1) born near 1693 died - alive 1755, and probably in 1765.

married Jul.19,1717 at Dorchester, Rachel Spear, born Apr.10,1686, died - before 1755, dau. of Ebenezer & Rachel (Deering) Spear of Braintree.

They resided on land given by his father at the present N.W. corner of North & Oak Sts., Randolph until 1755 when he sold his house and 30 acres to Nathaniel Littlefield of Stoughton, and no further record is found of him except that a deposition of William & Thomas Curtis in 1841 states that they know Sampson Dunbar, a mulatto when he lived with Cornelius Thayer near the pond, date not stated, but must have been sometime after 1766 as Sampson Dunbar was living with Gen. Ebenezer Thayer about 1766, according to the testimony, and it could not have been earlier that the Curtises recalled him at Cornelius Thayer's if the depositions are correct, since William Curtis was born in 1753. Cornelius Thayer, however, sold land to Sampson Dunbar Jan.13,1755, same month he sold his homestead to Nathaniel Littlefield (Norfolk Deeds 131-113 & S.D.).

No children, apparently

Cornelius Thayer Jr. was elected constable 1738. He was a fenceviewer 1739 for So. Precinct, and Cornelius Thayer, cooper, was surveyor of highways 1746 for So. Precinct.

Thayer 4640

Ezekiel4 (Cornelius3Richard2-1) born near 1695

died - living Feb.1761, deceased or removed by May 1764.
married Nov.4,1725, Mehitable White, born Feb.15,1701, died -, dau. of Thomas & Mehitable (Adams) White.

Resided on land given by his father's will and was there in 1761 but on May 1764 it was owned by Ichabod Holbrook. No deeds and no probate records for his estate. Possibly deeds were lost in one of the two missing volumes of Suffolk Deeds of about this period. Resided on North St., Randolph north of Oak St. Mehitable wife of Ezekiel Thayer owned the covenant at So. Precinct Church in 1733. He was elected hogreave 1755.

Gideon4 (Cornelius3Richard2-1) born Mar.1,1700 died Feb.7,1741/2 "by falling through the ice" in crossing the Monatiquot River on his way to church from his home on Middle St. married Jun.3,1723, Hannah Hollis, born Oct.8,1705, died 1776, dau. of John & Mary (? Yardley) Hollis. She married 2nd May 29,1751 (Christ Ch.Rec) William French.

Gideon4 Thayer was son of Cornelius3 and not of Nathaniel3 as given in the Thayer Memorial and later books. He resided on Middle St.

south of Union St. east side, on land that was his father in law's, except between 1732-4 when he went to the So. Precinct, on land of his father's, the 17th lot in 6th division, north of Oak St., near No. Main St., Randolph.
He joined the church at So. Precinct in 1732 as did his wife Hannah. His estate was divided in 1753 but the widow's dower was not divided until Nov.4,1776 and she presumably died shortly before that date.
Gideon, eldest son had a double portion and shares were given to daughters Abigail, Eunice, son Job, Hannah, wife of Humphrey Burrell, Mercy wife of Benjamin White. Eunice & Job had William French their father in law appointed their guardian and he was made administrator of Job Thayer at his death. John Chessman and Abigail, Mercy White and Ezra Penniman & Eunice gave receipts for their portions Nov.16,1776, also Caleb Chard & wife Hannah of Abington Jun.1,1776.
It is interesting to note that Gideon Thayer in 1740 sold 3/8 share or part of the "old Iron Works in Taunton, now in Raynham, which did belong to my honored father Cornelius Thayer late of Braintree deceased, and I do quit claim for myself and heirs 5/8 parts more of my said father's right in said iron works which my brethren and sisters have sold to - (continued) the said Samuel Leonard and his father Samuel Leonard Esq. of Raynham." This apparently refers to his grand father Richard Thayer's interest which he obtained there when he sued Increase Robinson of Taunton as administrator of the estate of John Payne who had given him a faulty title to Iron Works land in Braintree (Bristol Deeds 26-417).

He was elected hogreave 1728, surveyor of highways 1732 (for So. Precinct), fenceviewer 1735,1741.

David4 (Cornelius3Richard2-1) born near 1702, died 1746 married Dec.17,1724, Dorothy Blanchard, born Dec.3,1697 at Weymouth, died - before husband, - dau. of Nathaniel & Dorothy (Capen) Blanchard of Weymouth & Braintree.

They resided in the South Precinct (Randolph) on land given by his father on North St. where he built a house with his brother Ezekiel. His wife Dorothy joined the church there in 1732.
On Jul.15,1746 James Penniman was made administrator of David Thayer (the index reads David Thayer estate, but the book (39-109) reads Cornelius Thayer, by error), and James Penniman was appointed same day as guardian to David aged 19, Ruth about 18, Abigail about 16, Dorothy about 13, children of David Thayer late of Braintree, yeoman. With this estate is also filed an inventory of Cornelius Thayer a minor, who deceased at Louisburg in His Majesty's service 1745. The account of James Penniman as administrator mentions "Paid to Ephraim Thayer Jr. who brought up the deceased from about 7 years of age until he enlisted in His Majesty's service at Louisburg, as an apprentice œ10". His wages and bounty were œ13/0/11.

Moses4 (Cornelius3Richard2-1) born near 1704

died - buried Sep.4,1727 (Ch.Rec).
married Aug.6,1723, Christian Aspinwall, born Aug.2,1704 at Boston, died -, dau. of John & Christian (Ager) Aspinwall of Boston. She married 2nd Nov.3,1729, Hezekiah Thayer, cousin of her first husband, not a brother as stated in Thayer Memorial (1835) and later.

Moses Thayer resided in present Randolph, north of Oak St. near Great Pond, and N.W. of Narroway River. His widow was made administrator and his inventory taken Sep.20,1727 includes a house and land, 1/16 part of a sawmill and mentions expenses of the widow and one small child.
The widow sold the homestead in June 1728 and afterward married Hezekiah Thayer.

Eliakim4 (Cornelius3Richard2-1) born near 1708, died 1762 married Aug.12,1729 (recorded at Dorchester & Milton) Deborah Hersey of Milton, born -, died - alive Nov.1770, dau. of John & Elizabeth (-) Hersey of Hingham, Milton & Boston.

He resided in the So. Precinct (Randolph) on land given by his father on North St., north of Oak St., the 5th share in the 13th lot, Second Division of purchase lands. Deborah wife of Eliakim Thayer joined the Randolph church in 1732. On Jun.18,1762 she was made administrator of his estate and was bonded with Samuel Jordan of Braintree, trader, and Israel Hersey of Boston, carter. In Sep.1770 she sold land to Moses Baker and this is the last record of her.

His children are not all on record and there may have been a few more than given here as no division of the estate is recorded. The daughter Thankful Thayer "of Weymouth, spinster", left a will dated Oct.19,1808, proved at Plymouth May 24,1813 as the will of Thankful Thayer of Bridgewater, single, deceased, which gives to her brother Jesse $1, to sister Huldah Davis $1, to sister Abigail Spooner $1, to children of late brother Gideon Thayer, viz. Cottonton Thayer $20, to children of Lilla Jones $10, to Sophia Jones wife of Samuel $30 etc., to Betsey Thayer, Asaph Thayer, Eli Thayer, & Deborah Thayer, each $10. To Peirca Hayden wife of Job $10, to Nancy Hayden wife of Charles a gold ring, to Harriet Loud daughter of Eliphalet Loud Esq. $50 etc., to Mary Alden wife of Isaac. Residue to Joseph Crocker Williams and Thomas Williams, sons of Simeon, equally: Eliphalet Loud Esq., executor.

Eleazer4 (Cornelius3Richard2-1) born near 1710, died 1782 married Apr.28,1730, Rachel French, born Mar.26,1704, died - before 1782, dau. of Thomas & Elizabeth (Belcher) French.

Inherited his father's homestead on Elm St. and occupied it alone after his brother Jeremiah removed about 1742, but sold most of it before his death as the inventory gives only 5/8 acre of land "being all the estate shown to us" when taken Nov.2,1790 by Moses French the administrator de-bonis-non.
Nathaniel Wales gentleman was made administrator Sep.17,1782, and most of the land went into the Wales family before Eleazer Thayer's death as a deposition taken Jan.26,1790 (S.D. 167-104) states that Eleazer Thayer and wife had sold it to Nathaniel Wales Nov.14,1770 but they and the two witnesses Zebah Thayer and Ahaz French being dead, it was sworn in court that the unrecorded deed was in the handwriting of Eleazer Thayer. Joseph Blake and wife Comfort of Chesterfield quit claimed the estate Jan.24,1791.

Eleazer and Jeremiah Thayer also sold to Samuel Leonard Jr. of Raynham "all our part or share that was our honored father Cornelius Thayer's in the old Iron Works in Raynham, being 2/8 of 1/3 part, May 16,1739.
His son Eleazer died in the army as shown by the following record from Mass. Archives 77-646: "This may certify all persons to whom it may concern that Eleazer Thayer Jr. aged about 19 years son of Eleazer Thayer of Braintree in ye County of Suffolk and Province of Massachusetts Bay in New England was - (cont.)

Jeremiah4 (Cornelius3Richard2-1) born Aug.20,1716, died alive 1790 married at Boston, probably, Joanna Richards, born Mar.16,1718 (1718/9) at Boston, died Nov.13,1813 "aged 99 years (sic) and about 8 months" at Randolph (Ch.Rec) (should read 94 years), dau. of Humphrey & Joanna (Norton) Richards of Boston.

In 1742 he removed from his father's homestead on Elm St. to North St., Randolph where he resided a short distance north of Central Cemetery on land which he sold in 1783 to his sons Jeremiah and Oliver, and as no further settlement of his estate is recorded the time of his death is unknown, but he is found in the 1790 census.

W.H. Woodman in Randolph's Ancient Deeds published 1900 in the Randolph Register says that "Joanna - was born Jan.6,1720 (error), was insane many years, and was accidently killed by a stray ball while at work at her linen wheel in the old house lately torn down on Liberty St., she being about 97 years of age (sic) Old Aunt Jeremy's Rocks near the south corner of the Niles Plain, on the banks of Cochato River got their name from one of her insane freaks." The identity of Joanna, wife of Jeremiah Thayer is proved by Suffolk Deeds 58-63 which calls her "only child of Humphrey Richards Jr. of Boston, baker, who was eldest son of Humphrey Richards late of Boston, deceased."

He was elected hogreave 1740,1747, fenceviewer 1743, surveyor of highways 1760,1776.

No settlement of his estate is on record but from deeds it is learned that his heirs had a small house lot on present So. Main St., Randolph, near the Town Hall, opposite the old High School (S.D. 111-218 and 127-165).
He was dead before the first deed Oct.9,1767, but he (or possibly his son Zebulon) witnessed a deed in Mar.1767.
His widow Sarah and sons Asa & Elias sold the above house lot Nov.11,1775 (Norfolk Deeds 14-151) "near Rev. Mr. Taft's meeting house in Braintree" while they were living at Northampton (now Westhampton).

Previously his homestead had been on what is now called Pond Lane between Oak St. and Great Pond a part of which he sold Jun.8,1737 to John Dyer (S.D. 60-238).
His children whose baptisms are in the So. Precinct Church records, are also in town records but there is a conflict in the dates and the names.

He was a Revolutionary Soldier 1775. He applied for a pension in 1818 "now a resident of Noddle's Island in Chelsea". In Sep.1820 he stated he was a resident of Randolph, aged 65, had no property "except the clothes on my back". He resided in Braintree Highlands until 1785 when he sold "a small farm of 20 acres" which was on the west side of Washington St. a little south of where the railroad station used to stand. He lived for a time probably in Boston or Dorchester but is in the 1790 census at Braintree where his children were perhaps most of them born.
He was called of Boston at his second marriage and was called of Dorchester in 1795 when he and wife Abigail sold her share of Wiswell property there. The children are not on record and are taken from the Thayer Memorial (1835).

Levi6 (Hezekiah5-4Nathaniel3Richard2-1)

born Feb.2,1752 (according to Thayer Gen. (1876) and Hist. of Braintree, Vt.).

died Jun.18,1812 at Braintree, Vt., gs., Brown Cem., aged 59yrs. 8mo. (V.R.).
It seems probable that his birth date should read Feb.2,1753.
married intention Mar.18,1775, Hannah Curtis, born Nov.26,1757 (Fam. Rec.), probably at Braintree (now Randolph) where her father resided from 1756 to 1758, baptized Oct.29,1758 at North Bridgewater, died - (alive Jun.1846 a.90), dau. of Ashley & Sarah (Hayden) Curtis of East Stoughton (Avon).
He was a Revolutionary Soldier 1775 and his widow applied for a pension in Nov.1837 (R. 10487) and she stated that he was in service in 1776 when their first child was born Jun.4,1776 and second child was born Jan.14,1778, third child born Mar.29,1780. She was living in June 1846 aged 90 and her son Abel Thayer applied in 1852 for pension due but not received in her lifetime, but the government replied that his service was not confirmed.

Levi Thayer resided on North St. in Randolph north of Oak St., but when Randolph was set off from Braintree he objected and was taxed in Braintree until he removed in 1808 to Braintree, Vermont. His will was also filed in Norfolk Co. and was dated Apr.22,1812, proved Jun.30,1812 in Vermont, copy filed in Mass. Mar.1,1814. He mentions his wife Hannah, son Levi, son Alpha, daughter Hannah Hobart, daughter Mary Thayer, a minor, and sons Zenas, Abel & Otis Thayer.

married 2nd intention Jan.12,1804 at Belchertown "widow Betsey Wale", Betsey (Howard) Wales, widow of Moses Wales of Stoughton and Randolph, born -, died "widow Thayer - Jun.9,1856 a.93, old age", at Belchertown. The State House copy of the record says a.90, daughter of -.

The search for her identity has been fruitless. A descendant, Major Dorman of Longmeadow gave the date of Sep.26,1784 at Easton for her birth, but such is impossible as her first marriage to Moses Wales took place in 1790. There is no record at Easton or Bridgewater of a Betsey or Elizabeth Howard or Hayward who could be she. Two of her step sons also married Howards who have not been identified after much search, and one of her step sons married his step sister Betsey Tolman Wales.

Reuben Thayer bought land in Belchertown in 1783 (Hampshire Deeds 21-282) but was in 1790 census in Braintree, and bought more land in Belchertown in 1794. All his children are recorded there but probably some were born in Braintree. He left a will dated Jun.16,1829 mentioning his wife Betsey, eldest son Hezekiah, second son John, third son Job, daughters Charlotte Canterbury, Polly Arnold, son Reuben, daughters Esther & Dorcas, son William.

died Dec.27,1828 in 68th yr., gs., Central Cem., Randolph. married intention Feb.1,1783, Sarah Stetson, sister of his brother Reuben's wife, born about 1763, (bapt. Jun.26,1774 with others) at So. Precinct, died Jan.31,1840 a.76, gs., Central Cem., dau. of John & Rachel (Payne) Stetson.

He was a Revolutionary Soldier 1776-8, and his widow applied for a pension in 1838, aged 74, and stated he served three years at Castle William, that they were married Jul.17,1783 etc. She joined the church at Randolph in 1795. He left a will but it was rejected by the court as he was said to be incompetent at the time it was made. He resided on the farm he bought of his brother Levi on North St. Randolph in 1808 when the latter removed to Vermont. The widow's dower was set off and division was made to Samuel, eldest son, to Lilly Thayer wife of Levi Thayer, only daughter, and to Amasa Thayer, youngest son. He was elected sealer of leather 1792 (So. Precinct).

He built a grist mill in Quincy at the foot of Pond St. about 1806. His will dated at Deer Island Jun.15,1838 mentions wife Elizabeth and the children (not recorded). It is said he also kept a hotel at Charlestown at one time.

JOHN THOMPSON OF WEYMOUTH AND MENDON WAS NOT THE SON OF MR. DAVID THOMSON OF THOMSON'S ISLAND

Douglas Richardson

Among the earliest settlers in New England was Mr. David Thomson, an obscure yet interesting man who arrived in 1623 and began a plantation at Piscataqua near Smith's Isles in New Hampshire (Alexander Young, Chronicles of the Pilgrim Fathers of the Colony of Plymouth, from 1602-1625 [Boston, Mass.: The Author, 1844 (reprinted Baltimore, 1974)], 350-351). Thomas Morton, one of America's earliest historians, wrote of Thomson, saying he was "a Scottish gentleman," and that Thomson and Sir Christopher Gardiner, Knight, were both conversant with the native Americans; that they were both "Scollers and Travellers"; and that they were "men of good judgement, and that have bin in those parts any time" (Thomas Morton, The New English Canaan [Amsterdam, Holland: The Author, 1637 (reprinted Boston, 1893)], 128).

There is reason for thinking that Thomson had early been a servant of Sir Ferdinando Gorges in London who, upon his release from prison, moved his family to Plymouth, Devon (Ralph E. Thompson and Matthew R. Thompson, Pascataway - De Facto Capital of New England 1623-1630. Typescript [Portsmouth, N.H., c1973], 34, hereafter Pascataway). In 1876, Charles Deane proved that prior to Thomson's arrival in the New World, he was a resident of Plymouth in Devonshire (Proceedings of the Massachusetts Historical Society [Boston, Mass.: The Society, May 1876], 358-385, hereafter MHS Proceedings; A Volume Relating to the Early History of Boston Containing the Aspinwall Notarial Records from 1644 to 1651 [Boston, Mass.: Municipal Printing Office, 1903], 128-130). Before his removal to the Westcountry, Gorges had often resided at his family's town-house in the parish of St. James in Clerkenwell, now part of a municipal borough of London but at that time a prosperous parish just outside the city limits, about a mile north of London Bridge. When Sir Ferdinando was away on military expeditions, his family would take up residence there, as the home had been in the family for generations (Pascataway, 8).

While living at Plymouth, Thomson became involved in the affairs of the Council for New England. That Thomson was "conversant" with the Indians may be explained by the fact that, between 1604 and 1619, at least ten different New England Indians had lived in Plymouth, Devon, under Gorges' auspices, including three who lived in Gorges' household for three years. In this way, Gorges and others learned as much as they could about New England and the natives. One of these Indians was the famous Tisquantum (known to the Pilgrims as Squanto), who returned to his native Cape Cod with the expedition sent out by Gorges and led by Captain Thomas Dermer in 1619, for which Tisquantum served as interpreter (Pascataway, 39).

Thomson's name is often mentioned in the records of the Council, and he appears to have been employed in a confidential capacity as a sort of agent or messenger of the company. On 16 October 1622, the Council for New England granted to David Thomson a tract of 6,000 acres of land and one island in New England. Shortly afterwards, on 14 December 1622, Thomson conveyed a one-quarter interest in his tract to three Plymouth merchants who, in turn, agreed to send Thomson to New England within the year on the ship, Jonathan, of Plymouth. By the following Spring, Thomson arrived in New England where he settled at a place called Little Harbor on the west side of the Piscataqua River, his plantation being known as Pannaway. According to Stackpole, the specific site was at Odiorne's Point in modern Rye (Everett S. Stackpole, Old Kittery and Her Families [Lewiston, Me.: The Author, 1903], 18-20). A splendid map showing the location of the plantation has been made following intense study by Raymond W. Stanley of York, Maine (Pascataway, 34).

That he had been here as early as 1621 to supervise the construction of Fort Pannaway is a distinct possibility (ibid., 3, 33). It is, moreover, not unreasonable to think that he had been here as early as the Spring of 1616, for at that time Gorges deployed Richard Vines and "others my own servants," who disembarked from Gorges' fishing vessel on Monhegan Island off the coast of Maine and, during the summer, explored the New England coast as far south as Long Island. They worked their way back northeastward and spent the winter at the Saco River with the Indians. Many of the Indians there died of the small pox at that time but, though Vines and the others lived in juxtaposition with the sick Indians, none of the Englishmen caught the dreaded disease. Vines was a medical man, probably an apothecary, from whom the 23-year-old Thomson would have learned much.

An Indian sagamore deposed that he had been with David Thomson on Thomson's Island in 1619 (ibid., 40). He was still living at Piscataqua in 1626 when he joined William Bradford and some men from Plymouth Colony in an effort to salvage the cargo of a French ship cast away at Sagadahoc (Charles Henry Pope, The Pioneers of Maine and New Hampshire 1623 to 1660 [Boston, Mass.: The Author, 1908 (reprinted Baltimore, 1973)], 204, hereafter Pope's Me. & N.H. Pioneers).

Not long after this, Thomson acquired Trevour's Island [later Thomson's Island] in Boston Harbor, and erected a habitation there (ibid., 204-205). Thomson claimed the island by virtue of the grant from the Council for New England (supra; MHS Proceedings, 373). After settling on the island, he apparently assisted Samuel Maverick in building a fort on Noddle's Island at the mouth of the Mystic River (ibid., 372).

The precise time of Thomson's death is not known. However, in a petition made in 1648 by his son, John, it was claimed that he died "soon after" he took possession of Thomson's Island. He evidently died by 1628, for in that year, a "Mrs. Thomson" contributed towards the expense of capturing and removing Thomas Morton of Merry Mount (ibid.). Thomson's widow, Amias, married secondly, by 1632, Mr. Samuel Maverick of Noddle's Island, for in that year she joined her new husband in a deed (Pope's Me. & N.H. Pioneers, 205). Samuel Maverick was the son of Rev. John and Mary (Gye) Maverick of Beaworthy, Devon, who immigrated to New England in 1629, settling in Dorchester, Massachusetts Bay Colony (Charles Henry Pope, The Pioneers of Massachusetts [Boston, Mass.: The Author, 1900], 307-308, hereafter Pioneers of Massachusetts). In a letter written by Amias Maverick in 1635 from Noddle's Island to Mr. Robert Trelawny, she made reference to her "fatherless children," presumably meaning her Thomson children (James Phinney Baxter, ed., Documentary History of the State of Maine, in 24 volumes [Portland, Me.: Maine Historical Society, 1884], 3:76-78]).

In 1649, Samuel and Amias Maverick and their son, Nathaniel, sold Noddle's Island. During the interval between leaving Boston and settling in New York, Samuel Maverick did not make his home in Massachusetts, and it has been suggested that he perhaps lived in York, Maine, where he owned land (Sybil Noyes, Charles Thornton Libby, and Walter Goodwin Davis, Genealogical Dictionary of Maine and New Hampshire [Portland, Me.: The Anthoensen Press, 1928-1939 (reprinted Baltimore, 1972)], 470, hereafter Genealogical Dictionary). It is known that his wife, Amias, was in Saco in 1666 along with their daughter, Mrs. Mary Hooke (ibid.). In 1664, Maverick was one of the commissioners of King Charles II in New York (Pioneers of Massachusetts, 308). Administration on his estate was granted in the York, Maine, probate court on 27 September 1681 (Genealogical Dictionary, 470).

Pope showed that David Thomson had married in Plymouth, Devon, on 13 July 1613, Amyas Colle (otherwise Amias Cole), while later writers added the details of a marriage settlement on 1 April 1615 between David Thomson, then "of Plymouth, apothecary," and his wife's father, William Cole, also of Plymouth (Genealogical Dictionary, 680). Consequently, it seems pertinent to examine the parish records of Plymouth in an effort to learn more. The following have been found in a recent search (M.C.S. Cruwys, ed., The Register of Baptisms, Marriages & Burials of the Parish of St. Andrew's, Plymouth, Co. Devon A.D. 1581-1618, with Baptisms 1619-1633 [Exeter, Devon: The Devon & Cornwall Record Society, 1954]):

As we can see from the above records, David Thomson and his wife, Amias Cole, were in fact married in Plymouth, Devon, but on 18 July 1613, not 13 July of that year. The parish records show the births of four children of which two, Priscilla and John, were apparently living at the time the family departed for New England. Of these children, only John is mentioned in New England records. He was a master mariner, making trips across the Atlantic, and he was often at the Piscataqua. As far as we know, his family never lived in New England. John Thomson once lived at Limehouse, Stepney, Middlesex, and he has also been described as "of London." In 1649, items belonging to "Mr. Thompson" were found in the appraisal made on the estate of Mr. Stephen Sargent, a fishing master of Richmond Island (Genealogical Dictionary, 608, 680).

For reasons not completely understood, the government of the Colony of the Massachusetts Bay, in 1634, granted Thomson's Island, the former residence of David Thomson, to the town of Dorchester. However, on 10 May 1648, John Thomson laid claim to the island:

> Forasmuch as it appeares to this Co^{r}te, upon the petition of M^{r} John Thomson, sonn & heire of David Thomson, deceased, that the said David, in or about the yeare 1626, did take actuall possession of an iland in the Massachusets Bay, called Thomsons Iland, & being then vacuum domicilium, & before the patent granted to us of the Massachusets Bay, & did erect there the forme of an habitation, & dying soone after, leaving the petition^{r} an infant, who, so soone as he came to age, did make his claime formerly, & now againe, by his said petition, this Co^{r}te, consid^{r}ing the premises, & not wiling to deprive any of their lawfull right & possession, or to pmit any piudice to come to the petition^{r} in the time of his non age, do hereby graunt the said iland, called Thomsons Iland, to the said John Thomson & his heires forever, to belong to this iurisdiction, & to be und^{r} the gov^{r}nment & lawes thereof (Nathaniel B. As we can see from the above records, David Thomson and his wife, Amias Cole, were in fact married in Plymouth, Devon, but on 18 July 1613, not 13 July of that year. The parish records show the births of four children of which two, Priscilla and John, were apparently living at the time the family departed for New England. Of these children, only John is mentioned in New England records. He was a master mariner, making trips across the Atlantic, and he was often at the Piscataqua. As far as we know, his family never lived in New England. John Thomson once lived at Limehouse, Stepney, Middlesex, and he has also been described as "of London." In 1649, items belonging to "Mr. Thompson" were found in the appraisal made on the estate of Mr. Stephen Sargent, a fishing master of Richmond Island (Genealogical Dictionary, 608, 684).

For reasons not completely understood, the government of the Colony of the Massachusetts Bay, in 1634, granted Thomson's Island, the former residence of David Thomson, to the town of Dorchester. However, on 10 May 1648, John Thomson laid claim to the island:

> Forasmuch as it appeares to this Co^{r}te, vpon the petition of M^{r} John Thomson, sonn & heire of David Thomson, deceased, that the said David, in or about the yeare 1626, did take actual possession of an iland in the Massachusetts Bay, called Thompsons Iland, & being then vacum domicilium, & before the patent granted to us of the Massachusetts Bay, & did erect there the forme of an habitation, & dying soone after, leaving the petition^{r} an infant; who, so soone as he came to age, did make his claime formerly, & now againe, by his said petition, the Co^{r}te, consid^{r}ing the premises, & not willing to deprive any of their lawfull right & possession, or to peimt any prejudice to come to the petitioner^{r} in the time of his non age, do hereby graunt the said iland, called Thompsons Iland, to the said John Thomson & his heires forever, to belong to this jurisdiction, & to be und^{r} the gov^{r}nment & lawes thereof (Nathaniel B. Shurtleff, ed., Records of the Governor and Company of the Massachusetts Bay in New England, Vol. 3, Commonwealth of Massachusetts, 1853], 245; ibid., Vol. III, 1644-1657 [1854], 129).

John Thomson did not keep the island for long. In 1650, describing himself as "of London," but being in Boston, Thomson mortgaged the island to two Bristol merchants for the sum of £163.6.0, the mortgage to be paid in merchantable cod fish before the last of March the following year. Upon failure to meet the terms of the mortgage, the court in 1651 granted execution of a judgment to the two merchants for £218.7.10, "the Iland called Thompsons Iland to Satisfie as farre as it will goe" (Suffolk County Deeds, 1:117 and 3:103-104). Having lost the island by this foreclosure action, John Thomson lost all his interest in Thomson's Island.

Curiously enough, some John Thompson was a town officer in nearby Weymouth in 1645 (Pioneers of Massachusetts, 451). Clearly not the same as the town officer, who would have had to already be a freeman, another John Thompson was made a freeman in Weymouth on 18 May 1653 (Nathaniel B. Shurtleff, ed., Records of the Governor and Company of the Massachusetts Bay in New England. Vol. IV.-Part I., 1650-1660 [Boston, Mass.: The Commonwealth of Massachusetts, 1854], 460). The latter John Thompson remained in that community until about 1667, when he removed to the newly-founded town of Mendon, Massachusetts Bay Colony. He died there on 9 November 1685 (Vital Records of Mendon, Massachusetts, to the Year 1850 [Boston, Mass.: n.p., 1920], 507). Among this man's descendants a tradition has been preserved that he once owned Thomson's Island in Boston Harbor (Adrian Scott and Henry A. Whitney, The Thompson Family [Uxbridge, Mass.: Mendon Historical Society, 1913], 32). At least four writers have accepted this tradition as a fact (Buell Burdett Bassette, One Bassett Family in America [Springfield, Mass.: The Author, 1926], hereafter Bassett Family in America; Colonel Henry Joseph Amy, Descendants of David and Amyes [Colle] Thomson and Their Son John. Typescript [Eastchester, N.Y., 1962], hereafter Thomson Descendants; and Ralph E. Thompson and Matthew R. Thompson, Pascataway - De Facto Capital of New England 1623-1630. Typescript [Portsmouth, N.H., c1973], herein Pascataway). Despite the claims of these works, there appears to be nothing whatsoever to connect John Thomson, son of Mr. David Thomson, with either of the men who lived in Weymouth and the man later in Mendon. One source of confusion is the similar age of David Thomson's son and the Weymouth/Mendon man. John Thompson of Weymouth and Mendon testified in 1659 that he was then aged about 40 years, or born circa 1619 (Bassett Family in America, 727-728). It will be remembered that John, son of Mr. David Thomson, was baptized on 5 January 1618/9 (supra).

However, there are two considerations which demonstrate a clear distinction between the two men and permit us to conclude that they were not one and the same individual. In the first instance, David Thomson's son, John, was styled "Mr.," a title he enjoyed as a master mariner. John Thompson of Weymouth and Mendon, on the other hand, was a husbandman, and was known as "Goodman" Thompson, which designation reflected a lower social standing. The differences in occupation and social standing are important and central to this discussion. John Thompson of Weymouth and Mendon was separate and distinct from the Thomson's Island man.

Col. Amy implies that the will of the Mendon man gives some support to his theory that this man was earlier of Thomson's Island (Thomson Descendants, 5). But Bassette gives a full abstract of the will and there is nothing in the will which supports Amy's theory (Bassett Family in America, 729-730).

While no American descendants of Mr. David Thomson have been traced, it is conceivable that his surviving son, John, the master mariner, left issue in England. Any possible surviving daughters of David Thomson who might have married and left issue have, likewise, not been traced. David Thomson's widow, Amias, also left surviving issue by her second husband, Samuel Maverick (vide post).

A search of the parish registers of St. James, Clerkenwell, together with those of St. Andrew's in Plymouth suggests the following tentative pedigree (Pascataway, 54):

DAVID THOMSON, baptized at St. James, Clerkenwell, 17 Dec. 1592, son of Richard and Florence (Cromlan) Thomson, married at St. Andrew's, Plymouth, 18 July 1613, AMYES [Amias] COLLE, baptized there 3 October 1597, daughter of William and Agnes (Bryant) Colle or Cole. She was thus fifteen years old while her husband was twenty-one at the time. Thomson died circa 1628 at Thomson's Island in Boston Harbor, and his widow married secondly, circa 1629, Samuel Maverick. She was mentioned as Amias Maverick in the codicil to the will of her son, Nathaniel, dated 3 September 1672, and may have died in Saco, Maine, where she had a seat in the meeting-house on 22 September 1666 (Genealogical Dictionary, 26). Readers who are interested in Samuel Maverick and his family, are advised to consult William Prescott Greenlaw's, "John Maverick and Some of His Descendants" (The New England Historical and Genealogical Register, 96 [July and October 1942]: 235-239, 361-363, hereafter Register) for additional details. With respect to the maiden surname of David Thomson's proposed mother, above, it is here suggested that this is possibly a variant of the surname Cromwell, often seen as "Cromlom" or "Crumlum" in New England records.

Commonwealth of Massachusetts, 1853], 353; ibid., Vol. II, 1644-1657 [1854], 129).

John Thomson did not keep the island for long. In 1650, describing himself as "of London," but being in Boston, Thomson mortgaged the island to two Bristol merchants for the sum of £165.6.0, the mortgage to be paid in merchantable cod fish before the last of March the following year. Upon failure to meet the terms of the mortgage, the court in 1651 granted execution of a judgment to the two merchants for £218.7.10, "the Iland called Thompsons Iland to Satisfie as farre as it will goe" (Suffolk County Deeds, 1:117 and 3:103-104). Does this go w/ Aldrich?

Several emigrant clothworkers chose yet another option – abandoning their trades in order to devote themselves to full-time farming. Thomas Hayward, a Kentish tailor, eventually settled in the new town of Bridgewater, where he became an original proprietor and began to call himself a yeoman. Others followed Hayward's example in becoming New England farmers. Their possessions generally included land, agricultural tools, and household goods, but gave no indication that they ever attempted to practice their former trades. Even Michael Metcalf, one of Norwich's more successful weavers (and one of the town's fieriest Puritans), took up full-time farming when he settled with his large family in Dedham. No loom appeared among his possessions at the time of his death, apparently indicating that Metcalf had relinquished all connections with his former trade when he moved to New England.[15]

II

Artisans working in trades not related to clothmaking likewise had adjustments to make in New England, but the nature of those adjustments depended upon their specific craft. Men with highly specialized skills found the transition most difficult, for the primitive colonial economy had no place for their abilities. Again, their choices essentially amounted to abandoning their old trade or trying to work at it part-time. Edmund [15] Nine of the nineteen clothworkers whose occupational histories can be traced became full-time farmers. For Thomas Hayward, see Charles Henry Pope, The Pioneers of Massachusetts, A Descriptive List, Drawn from Records of the Colonies, Towns and Churches, and Other Contemporaneous Documents (Boston, 1900), 224; Justin Winsor, A History of the Town of Duxbury, Massachusetts, with Genealogical Registers (Boston, 1849), 266; see also his will and inventory in the Plymouth County Probate Records, Vol. 4, Pt. 1, pp. 82–4. For Michael Metcalf, see Daniel M. Wheeler, The Wheeler Family of Rutland, Massachusetts, and Some of Their Ancestors (n.p., 1924), 19–20; L. M. Harris, communicator, "Metcalf Family," New England Historical and Genealogical Register, VI (1852), 171; his will and inventory are in the Suffolk County Probate Records, Vol. 1, 497–500; Vol. 4, 214–15.

England homes. But many households contained more than the family bible; their small libraries often included well-known Protestant religious tracts, devotional manuals, and printed sermons by English and New England divines. Michael Metcalf, Comfort Starr, and Nathaniel Tilden, for instance, all owned copies of John Foxe's Book of Martyrs, as well as other religious titles – in Tilden's case, as part of a collection of over thirty volumes. Nicholas Busby, the Boston shopkeeper and part-time weaver, owned several "bookes of Divinitie, vizt. Mr. Perkings, Mr. Willet sinops and Comentary on the Romains, & Mr. Hieroms two bookes." Thomas Hayward of Bridgewater possessed (and presumably studied) "Mr. Sheppards book upon the parable of the ten virgins & Mr. Sheppard upon the sincere Convert, Mr. Ralph Allen of the riches of the covenant of grace, also his victory over the world: & doctor pressons of gods alsufficiency & severall other sermons Annexed there unto & Mr. Dod upon the Commandements & Mr Coopers book of Jacobs wrestling with God[,] Mr. Byfield his marrow & his principles," along with a bible and "some other smale books" – an impressive library indeed for a farmer of modest means.[76]

[76] Probate inventories have survived for seventy emigrant household heads; of these inventories, fully fifty-two (74.3 percent) list books. This figure is roughly comparable to those calculated by David Hall and Gloria Main. See Hall, Worlds of Wonder, 247–9; Gloria L. Main, "The Standard of Living in Southern New England, 1640–1773, WMQ, 3rd ser., XLV (1988), 124–34. Scholars have recently noted that book ownership was considerably more widespread among seventeenth-century New Englanders than among their Chesapeake contemporaries; see Lois Green Carr and Lorena S. Busby's and Starr's inventories are in the Suffolk County Probate Records, dockets no. 165 and 233, respectively; Metcalf's is also in the Suffolk records, Vol. 4, 214–15. Tilden's inventory is printed in Mayflower Descendant, 3 (1901), 222–3. For Hayward, see Plymouth County Probate Records, Vol. 4, Pt. 1, 84.

Aldrich Family,

We all want the reliability and credibility of family information. On the Web, George's Birth PLACE is listed as Hertfordshire in places (in which area Great Berkhampstead, now Berkhamsted) is found and Derbyshire. This would be like claiming someone was born in Worcester Co. and Suffolk Co. NOt possible - unless the boundaries in the 1600's were quite different. Hertfordshire is just north and slightly west of London and Derbyshire is more nearly the midlands of England.

The most accurate documents tell us... WHICH PLACE. If we can agree on this, then I think that we have to campaign against the spread of poor information about George's birth place. E mail the web master whenever you see something wrong.

In the early days of the NAA on the internet, a devoted family member had posted lots of historical information about George's burial in Mendon and related material about Mendon and George's biography. Have these web pages been moved and reposted or sent to cyber limbo?

I am wanting to make paper copies for the sake of my progeny and I am trying to collect the info. In trying to put it on paper, I have come across the discrepancy mentioned above. Check your documents and weigh in please.

ALDRICH

FIRST GENERATION: ENGLAND TO NEW ENGLAND

John^{1} Marsh, the immigrant ancestor of our branch of the Marsh family, was born in April,1618, (AFN:27PF-31; WEB:30) in Braintree, Essex County, England (GGE:370). He was the second of three sons of John^{a} and Grace (Baldwin) Marsh of Braintree (AFN:959H-W9; AFN:959H-XG; GGE:370-371). The eldest son, Joseph, was a clothier there like his father. He remained in England; never married and his estate was divided among his surviving siblings at his death in 1676. John^{1} named two sons for his brother Joseph but neither of the boys survived to adulthood. He named another son for his younger brother, Samuel, who emigrated to New Haven CT, married Comfort Mann, and moved on to New Jersey where their descendants have been well documented. (AFN:8Q48 TH; MWI:1:1:11-12)

The most accurate account of the parentage of John^{1} Marsh can be found in the July, 1895 issue of the New England Historic and Genealogical Society's Register, in an article by Henry F. Waters, entitled "Genealogical Gleanings in England", pp. 370-371. The will of his father, John^{a} Marsh, dated 15 Apr 1627, proved 29 May 1627, shows the family relationships, with more details provided in AFN:959H-W9 and AFN:959H-XG: John^{a} Marsh, b. ca. 1589, Braintree, Essex, England; m. ca. 1613, Braintree, Grace Baldwin, b. ca. 1592, Braintree. d/o ?

CHILDREN: (All born in Braintree, birthdates approximate)

i. Sarah, b. ca. 1614; d. after 1627.
ii. Joseph, b. ca. 1615; d. 1676 (will made 22 May)
iii. Grace, b. ca. 1616; d. 15 Mar 1696; m. Nathaniel Tyres
iv. Mary, b. ca. 1617; d. after 1676; m. John Shorey
1. v. John^{1} , b. Apr 1618; d. 28 Sep 1688; m. Anne Webster
vi. Lydia, b. ca. 1620; d. after 1676; m. 01 Nov 1645 William Martin; her youngest daughter Grace came to America and was adopted by John^{1} Marsh. See 11. in his family.
vii. Samuel, b. ca. 1622; d. Sep 1683, Elizabethtown, Essex, NJ; m. ca. 1645 New Haven, New Haven CT, Comfort Mann.

Essex County in general, and Braintree in particular, were the original homes of many of the early settlers of Hartford CT and, more specifically, of their distinguished pastor, the Rev. Thomas Hooker. His congregation was a nucleus of independent religious thought and so was at odds with the established Church of England. At first, they called themselves the Puritans because they merely sought to purify the Anglican church. They felt it had become too hidebound in thought and placed too much emphasis on empty ritual. Believers in the new tradition also resented the power of the bishops, whom they thought had overreached reasonable limits. In the new world, congregations established their own individual independence. This point of view resulted in establishing the Congregational Church, a forerunner of the United Church of Christ.

Rev. Thomas Hooker brought many of the members of his Braintree congregation to America on the ship Griffin, landing at Boston on 4 Sep 1633. On 11 Oct he established a church at Newtown, now Cambridge MA, a suburb of Boston (FCC:1). John^{1} Marsh is believed to have come to Newtown in 1635 at the age of 17 (MAR: 1). Records are not available to prove whether he came independently or was apprenticed to a family. Rev. Hooker's congregation moved overland to the present site of Hartford CT, leaving Newtown on 31 May 1636 (LWD:31; WEB:4). Two groups of volunteers had gone ahead to scout out the land and assess its suitability for a settlement. They chose a site on the banks of the Connecticut river, near the Indian town of Suckiaug. There considerable land had already been cleared of forest growth.

The hardships endured by this group of more than one hundred men, women and children stagger the imagination. Because of illness, Rev. Hooker's wife was carried on a horse litter but many of the other women had to walk the entire distance. Some of them were carrying babies and others had small children by the hand. Their food supply was augmented by the milk furnished by their communal herd of about a hundred and sixty cattle. At night the only beds available were constructed of pine boughs but the fatigue of the daily journeys made them seem acceptable. When they emerged from the forest, after traveling approximately 120 miles in two long weeks, the cleared land on the bank of the Great River must have appeared to them as the garden of Eden. (LWD:31-46)

Records of the names of the families who participated in the trek personally led by Rev. Thomas Hooker do not include the name of John^1 Marsh. That is understandable as he was only eighteen and unmarried. Only heads of families were listed. However, John^1 must have come in that group or soon after because he is named on the Founders Monument in Hartford as one of the original settlers in 1636 (FEH: 379). This shaft stands in Hartford's oldest burial ground. His name is found on the north side of the monument. On the east side can be seen the names of Rev. Thomas Hooker, Gov. John Webster who was later the father-in-law of John^1 Marsh, and Richard Lyman, grandfather of the wife of John^2 Marsh. There are one hundred and one names listed on the monument, a distinguished roster of the founders of Hartford. (OLM:10-11)

The original proprietors received grants of land in the new town of Hartford. John^1 Marsh probably did not receive his plot until he turned twenty-one in 1639 (MAR:1). His name appears on Hartford's earliest map of 1640 (FCC). His lot was number sixteen, whose later location was at the crossing of Temple and Front streets. It overlooked Little Meadow which was on the bank of the Connecticut river. Here he erected his first home by the time of his marriage about 1642 to Anne, daughter of John and Agnes (Smith) Webster (AFN:27PF 46; SAV:154; WHF:351; FEH:379; TOR:489). In 1656, John Webster was elected Governor of the Colony of Connecticut (WEB:8).

An excellent source of information about John^1 Marsh was written in 1895 by Dwight Whitney Marsh of Amherst MA. It was published under the title of Marsh Genealogy, Giving Several Thousand Descendants of John^1 Marsh of Hartford CT, 1636-1895. Unfortunately for our branch of the Marsh family, this book stops in our line with the birth of Isaiah^5 Marsh in 1738 (MAR:117). It is the mission of the authors of the present volume to continue documenting our line to the present.

A quotation from D. W. Marsh's book will establish the pattern of the life of John^1 Marsh for the rest of his earthly existence: "We naturally think of his life in three parts: 1) up to his 18th year, 1618-1636, his English life of 17 years and then one year of sea and land before reaching Hartford, 2) twenty-four years of Hartford life, from his 18th to 42nd years, 1636-1660, 3) twenty-eight years of Hadley life, from his 42nd to his 70th year, 1660-1688." (MAR:2) he came independently or was apprenticed to a family, Rev. Hooker's congregation moved overland to the present site of Hartford CT, leaving Newtown on 31 May 1636 (LWD:31; WEB:4). Boston; that town chose a "Committee of Correspondence, Inspection and Safety," which assumed charge of public affairs. Nearly all the Massachusetts towns favorably responded to this scheme and these selected committees soon became the actual ruling powers of the land.

December 16, 1773, the Boston Tea Party was held on board the English tea ships in the harbor and ship-loads of tea were poured into the sea. This bold act was stimulating food for the rebellious spirit which was now abroad in the land.
